FOREWORD

The Razorback for 1938 is issued in a year of extraordinary strife. The great powers preserve partial peace only through the most adroit diplomacy. Two theaters of war already existing threaten to spread till all nations are embroiled in a terrifying conflict.

College students have a greater interest in these auguries of war than other classes, for it is the men of college age who are called upon to die.

And it is the college student who is following the course that must be adopted if the world is to have permanent peace. For there is one avenue to harmony between nations more promising than others . . . Peace through Education.

AFTER TWENTY-FIVE YEARS---

When John Clinton Futrall became president of the University of Arkansas twenty-five years ago, he took over a school without academic recognition, with meager equipment, few buildings, and inadequate faculty.

Through his adroit leadership and farsightedness, coupled with energy and zeal, President Futrall has effected changes that enable him to survey his quarter-century of service with justifiable pride.

He has guided his school from the half-academy, half-university he found it to a respected, recognized, high ranking, well staffed and well equipped university giving its state invaluable service in training tomorrow's citizens.

To retreat from the hurry of college life, the student goes to the main reading room of the library to study in quiet and comfort.

As every good college must have, Arkansas has an ivy-colored tower to stir the beholder on a moonlight night.

Blessed in its maiden season by housing a champion basketball team, the new field house also was the scene of concerts and the more elaborate dances.

Most influential of the movements to further the interests and the standards of the agrarian population of Arkansas come from the building housing the College of Agriculture.

From the antiquated and unmourned Buchanan Hall, Dormitory boys this year moved into the modern, clean, and efficient New Dormitory for Men.

Serene in its covering of snow in the winter moonlight, lovely and still as a haven for lovers in the spring, or impressive as a background for the commencement ceremonies in June, the Chi Omega Amphitheater is a center of beauty on the campus.

*In the quiet surroundings of the Vol Walker
Memorial library, in a beautiful new building crammed with the greatest thoughts of the world's greatest men, students pursue the activity which is their excuse for being—study.*

At a meeting in June, the Board promoted Dean J. S. Waterman of the School of Law to the vice-presidency of the University. At the same meeting the post of Dean of Men was abolished and a new adviser to men students, Personnel Director A. S. Humphreys, was appointed.

A College of Business Administration was created out of the old School of Business.

A definite plan for a student union, long sought after by the student leaders and this year backed by the Arkansas Traveler, may be presented to the board at its June meeting. With the appropriation of additional PWA funds by Congress, it is planned to apply for either a combination loan-grant or a long-time loan for the building should the Board give its sanction. The building would cost approximately $200,000.

Legislative body of the Associated Students government is the Student Senate. Composed of representatives from each of the classes and from each of the colleges, the senate is presided over by the President of Associated Students, who this year was Ralph Rawlings.

The new constitution, drawn up by a committee appointed by President Rawlings, was voted on and passed by the student body by an overwhelming majority.

Chief among the political plums apportioned annually by the president of the Associated Students, the job of chairman of the social committee this year went to Howard Holthoff.

Holthoff and other appointees forming the committee have as their job the apportioning of dates for social events staged by campus organizations, taking care to allow for a good smattering of student dances to give the non-frats a chance to be gay. All arrangements for orchestras, finances, and conduct at these student dances are in the hands of this committee which is in its ninth year of operation.

PERSONNEL DIRECTOR

To live peaceably and profitably with one's fellow men has often been stated as the aim of education. If education so prepares an individual, it should do no less for a nation. Today a casual survey of the news from the world would lead one to think men have forgotten the word peaceably and have thought only of living profitably, and they have failed even at that. As a little learning is a dangerous thing, so our incomplete or faulty education may be the cause of present day difficulties.

Some definite contribution have been made toward a better understanding between the countries of the world. Cecil Rhodes established a number of scholarships which he hoped would accomplish this purpose. Less publicized but quite helpful are the exchange scholars between colleges in this and other countries. Also valuable are such institutions as International House at Chicago. But education must still lack some factor essential to the accomplishment of world peace.

ALLAN SPARROW HUMPHREYS.

DEAN OF WOMEN

Men have always dreamed of a world free from war. When Rome's soldiers were extending her power to the ends of the earth, her poets were singing of an age of peace. But this desire for peace has never developed into the will to peace. Nations are still willing to pay the cost of war; they refuse to pay the uncertain price of peace.

Elihu Root has said: "For a new national relationship we must turn to education—cultivate the sub-soil of men's minds." To considerable extent this is being done.

In elementary schools the life and customs of other nations are being taught by books, foreign-made toys, dramatics, and moving pictures. Colleges and universities by way of exchange professorships with foreign universities, scholarships, courses in international law, and study clubs, are developing an interest in international problems and an understanding of other nations.

We can hope for prevention of war and advancement of peace only by education on the costs of war in men and money, and the encouragement of a national "will to peace".

MARTHA M. REID.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

One's education during school days is largely empirical thinking based upon uncritical observation.

In college, one's growth is marked largely by the progress one makes in passing from observational to logical thinking. A successful college student learns to ground his conclusions on facts and sound thought processes. But a college student uses, for the most part, materials of other people's gleanings.

In a recent novel a young doctor is represented as being questioned by an examining board for a certain certificate. He is asked by one of his questioners, "What do you consider to be the most important thing you have learned from your experience as a doctor?" To which the young man replied, "To take nothing for granted."

It is my conviction that the young doctor had the "graduate type of mind." He had graduated from his undergraduate habit of learning the discoveries of others to trying to make discoveries of his own.

JOHN CLARK JORDAN.

C O L L E G E   O F   A R T S   A N D   S C I E N C E S

Since the day when Arnold and Huxley debated the merits of the study of Greek life and of natural science as elements of culture, there have been many movements affecting education. Strong recent influences have been to make all education "functional," a term that apparently means "vocational."

Among the vocationalists, there are those who would make all education above the high school vocational. Fortunately, this extreme view has aroused those who believe life is more than a means of earning a livelihood; that understanding, in some degree, the physical universe, the nature of man, the fine arts, social organization, is of fundamental importance in an education to make us anything but craftsmen or automata.

So long as America has voices like those of the brilliant youthful president of the University of Chicago, youth and civilization will not be "sold down the river."

VIRGIL LAURENS JONES.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Man has three fundamental physical needs—food, clothing, and shelter. Our College of Agriculture deals with all three fundamentals and attempts to teach how to obtain a satisfactory supply of each.

When an individual—or a nation—finds difficulty in satisfying needs, restlessness and ferment arise. Sometimes individuals adopt unsocial methods to satisfy them. Nations go to war to appease their wants.

Our College of Agriculture, therefore, deals with those goods, which, when secured in abundance, encourage peace among individuals and nations.

Man is a social animal. Our College of Agriculture does not, therefore, stop with instruction in methods of obtaining the three fundamentals. It completes its program by adding economics and sociology as they bear upon rural life.

DAN T. GRAY.

SCHOOL OF LAW

In law school, students are taught to observe the canons of ethics of the American Bar Association and to heed the oath taken on admission to the bar. Both the canons and the oath set standards of conduct which, if followed by leaders within a nation, might prevent international strife and make world peace more than a wish. This oath reads in part: "I will not counsel or maintain any cause which is unjust; I will employ for the purpose of maintaining the cause confided to me such means only as are consistent with accepted standards of truth and honor and will never seek to mislead by any false statement; and I will never reject, from any consideration personal to myself, the cause of the defenseless or the oppressed".

JULIAN SEESEL WATERMAN.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

One needs no training in economic theory to realize the follies and futilities of war. Understanding of economics, however, is required to comprehend the fallacies of that nostrum frequently advanced as a cure of war—self-containment—but so often its cause.

The most popular argument for national self-containment is that it would guarantee peace. If the truth of this hypothesis could be established, I am sure every economist would embrace nationalism, for the costs of a war on the scale of the Great War exceed the gains to a nation from foreign trade.

That some of the causes of war have been economic none can doubt. But would the closing of national markets to all foreigners promote world peace? Economic science teaches that economic nationalism is wealth-destroying.

Education in economics, therefore, points to world peace, not through policies of self-contained nationalism, but through Secretary Cordell Hull's policies of liberal, economic cooperation.

CHARLES CLIFTON FICHTNER.

C O L L E G E   O F   E N G I N E E R I N G

The College of Engineering has for its object the development of sound judgment based on analysis of facts and straight thinking. It strives to train men for industrial leadership and for professional engineering without losing sight of the main object of a college education, the training for citizenship.

The employment of our graduates by large industries indicates that it is accomplishing in part at least its purpose of developing industrial leaders.

Our physical equipment is of the best and within the past year a committee from the Engineering Council for Professional Development has examined and approved our curricula and equipment.

This is the only Engineering school in the state that has been approved for accrediting by the Engineering Council for Professional Development sponsored by the National Societies of Civil, Mechanical, Electrical, and Chemical Engineering together with the Society for Promotion of Engineering Education.

G. P. STOCKER.

C O L L E G E   O F   E D U C A T I O N

Grave tensions exist today. Despite business improvement in a number of countries, the world situation remains critical. Unbridled competition and international animosities exist on every hand. These conditions lead inevitably to war, and as long as there is war anywhere in the world, we are in danger of being drawn into it.

It is imperative, therefore, that we join with other nations in a determined effort to eliminate the causes of war. These causes are a part of our social and economic life, and arise out of the competitive struggle for material wealth and political power.

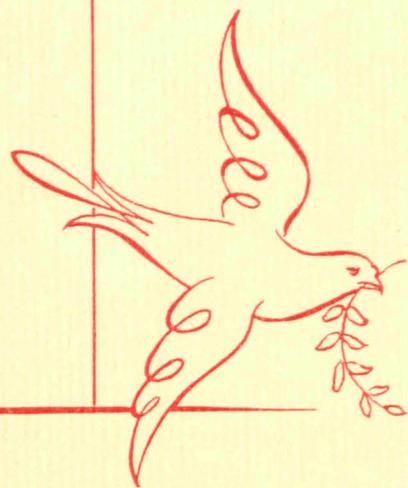

To avert wars, fundamental changes are essential in our social and economic structure. In this education must assume a large share of responsibility by substituting international friendship for jealous nationalism.

This supreme task can be accomplished only by a mammoth program of education—of adults, of youth, of children—under the guidance of competent teachers. If we wish to see a society ruled by reason and peace, we must create that society day by day in the school room.

ACTIVITIES

*"Let our social studies cultivate a sense of membership in the world.
So direct our efforts that international hearts will beat in concord with a world mind. Bearing ever in thought that the state of mind transcends national boundaries."*

Trimble adds to the famous Gordon smile . . . Prexy Lane of Boots and Spurs canters on her mount Seabiscuit, watch for stirring finish . . . Ex-editor Byrd does the highland fling at Camp . . . Benton and Thorpe make a rare call at the library . . . Nobles discusses the telephone situation with uninterested Jacoway . . . And thus passes old Buck Hall . . . Eugenia Hamilton and Pistol Gunn get a kick out of the KZ house dance . . . Colonel White's rover boys line up . . . President Futrall helps dedicate the new field house . . . The ever-present engineers still searching for their classes . . . A fish story creeps into the Little Theatre Russian play . . . Sign up for your uniform and pray it'll fit . . . "Geev heem tha beega tha poosh" at early football practice.

THESE OUR PEOPLE

Ruth Pittman rolled her hose all the way down but Alice Jones was interrupted in the middle of her task . . . Bonfire night-before-Homecoming. Greg looks glumly on while Coach Thomsen addresses the crowd . . . Jovial Jane and Winsome Willie Harris smile for the camera while Chili discusses the world situation with a friend . . . Al, the Shine Boy, displays the tinfoil covered trophy presented the boys after the Memphis game . . . Skitch B. High-Pockets Thompson collects his bet and endangers the life of a visiting cheer-leader . . . Jimmie Edson gets it in the neck during ABC initiation.

Ex-gridder Biddle bites his lips as "Buddy" Boyd scratches his head reflectively (?) . . . Shankle, Tuck look heavenward, and "Milkhead" sneers into the camera eye (courtesy S. N. E. T. T.) . . . At the time this picture was taken Stout was merely stretching arms over the heads of rabbit backs, Atwood and Hamburg; not over the then distant political front . . . Governor Bailey, Senators Caraway and Miller might follow the "pointing hand" of the chief executive to the little man below for some pointers in the political game . . . "Greg" grips the rope at Fort Smith but "Mintworth" Ashcraft isn't a bit interested in either Greg or the game . . . Tommy talks it over with Captains Robbins and Benton, the wheel horses of the aerial show whose presence will long be missed . . . Talking it over.

THE ROAR OF THE CROWD . . .

This is a bunch of people and that is a train. The people are yelling, maybe . . . This is a Bunch and the people are yelling, maybe . . . Coach Tommy might be saying "Puh-lease, old fellows," but he probably isn't . . . With all the weak-end trips, some folks are apt to get a little behind in their work . . . For the chosen few, Bunch struts her stuff . . . Herb Johnson attends Stallings' injured ankle during the Homecoming game.

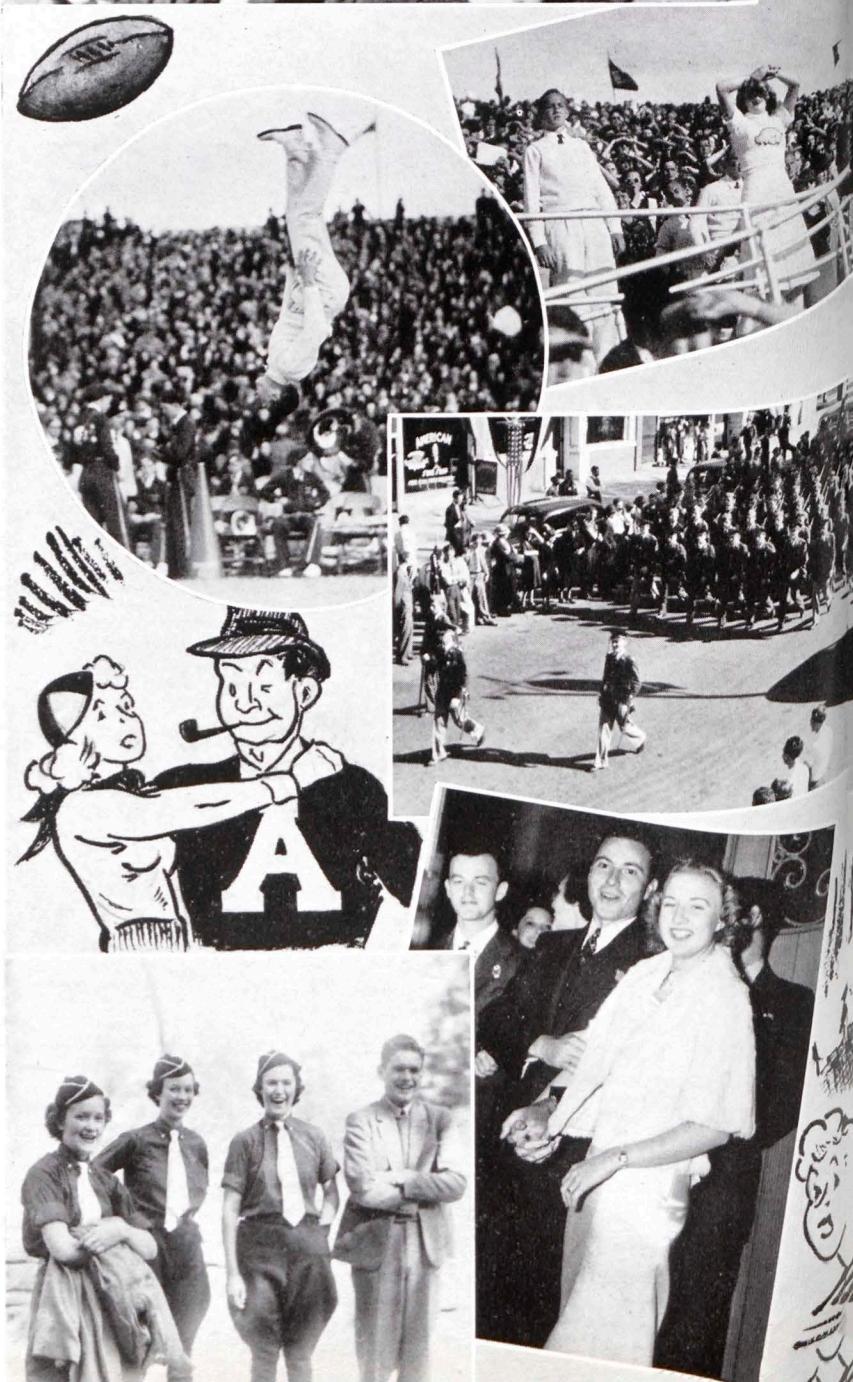

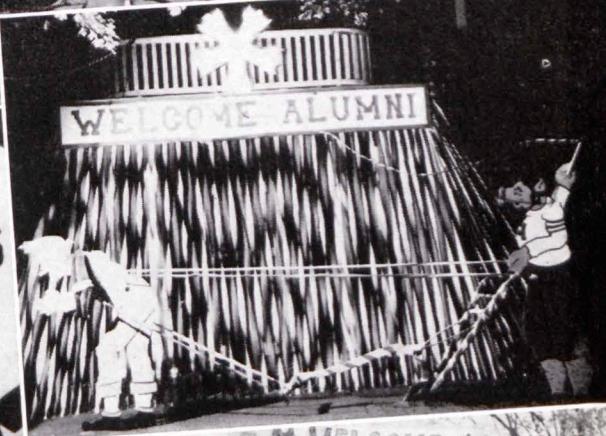

A few students plan to get away from it all on a quiet week-end trip . . . the fashion note this fall seems to be fur coats and sun glasses . . . With everyone looking in opposite directions, that must have been a complicated play . . . The band, excepting Sharron and Parrish, tootle on their merry way . . . Ughhhh! . . . Smilin' Through, Chio's and their escorts take a passionate interest in the game.

LOOK HOMeward ANGEL . . .

The sun bears down as the crowd restlessly awaits the opening whistle . . . Caple turns one of his numerous flips of the year as the Hogs swing into action . . . Even the cheerleaders like this one . . . the army drags wearily through Schuler on the homeward march for a bath and - - - - . Guidon's Otte, Du-Bard, Barnes, and "Smilin' Bill" Stelzner rest after the parade . . . "The glamorous Miss Goldfish" and Gus invade the new field house for the Homecoming hop while ex-cheer leader Harry Crumpler leers from the background.

Boydston beams and Rothemary smiles (we can't place the expression on Dollar, and Payne is too intent on her mirror to have any expression) . . . The Delta Gamma caravan winds slowly down Dixon to cop the float honors . . . The Pi Phi tank (army) grinds down the line . . . Skitch and the cheer leader from Texas A. & M. make up after the Thompson boy pulls a Delilah in cutting A. & M.'s hair on a bet . . . McCord beams from atop her throne . . . Sigma Nu's display their decorations for the nighttime spectators who quite probably are by night not much interested . . . while Kappa Swigma's display their talent for daytime visitors . . . "Grasping" Charlie Gardner eyes McCord's crown greedily and Ethel Betty Williams swings out on the mammoth instrument of pain donated by Arkansas' number one booster.

SWING IN THE OZARKS

Champion Appling Couple of Little Rock, Skitch Thompson and Jane Jones, show widely different forms in the Apple Shag at UA . . . Doo-Baby DuBard gives some hapless male (anybody but her partner) both barrels from those Campus Sweetheart Eyes . . . Willie the Weeper Goodwin and Paddlefoot Sloan in the shade of the Big Apple tree . . . Swing high, swing high . . . Williams works his way to the head of the line leading to Eugenia Hamilton . . . Corrine the Chorine King shimmies like my sister Kate.

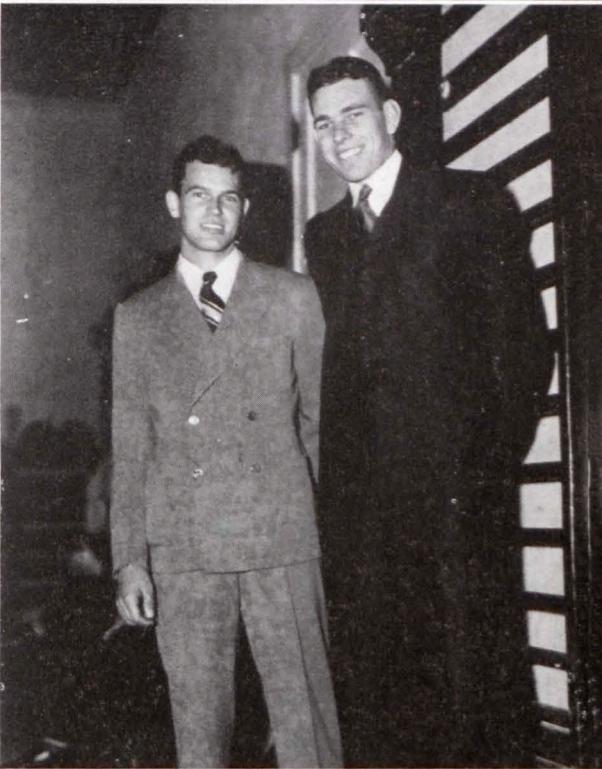

Swing Ding Varsity Clubbers doing some jive . . .
Praise Allah . . . "Disgusting!" "But it must be fun"
. . . Gordon and Winburne smile for the Grafex . . .
"Penny" Penrose enjoys the Vitale vitality . . . Let's throttle it down and glide in Franke . . . Ellison shows

"Jigger" Jordan of Fort Smith how it's done, expression and all . . . Atwood apparently isn't very well acquainted with the Chi house guest. Stag McCanne isn't interested at all.

MAN THE UNKNOWN

Sigma the Pup, who got in with the wrong crowd and died an early death . . .
The wages of, etc. . . . Sleepytime Gal and Shankle catch a little shut-eye . . .
Sigma fondly embraces S. Pitney shortly before the grim reaper struck him down in the height of his hey hey day . . .
Poncho Martin models the latest in camp apparel . . . Maxie Moneysign, the eccentric bachelor, spends a quiet evening with his pipe, his tennis racquet, his trumpet, his shaving mug . . .

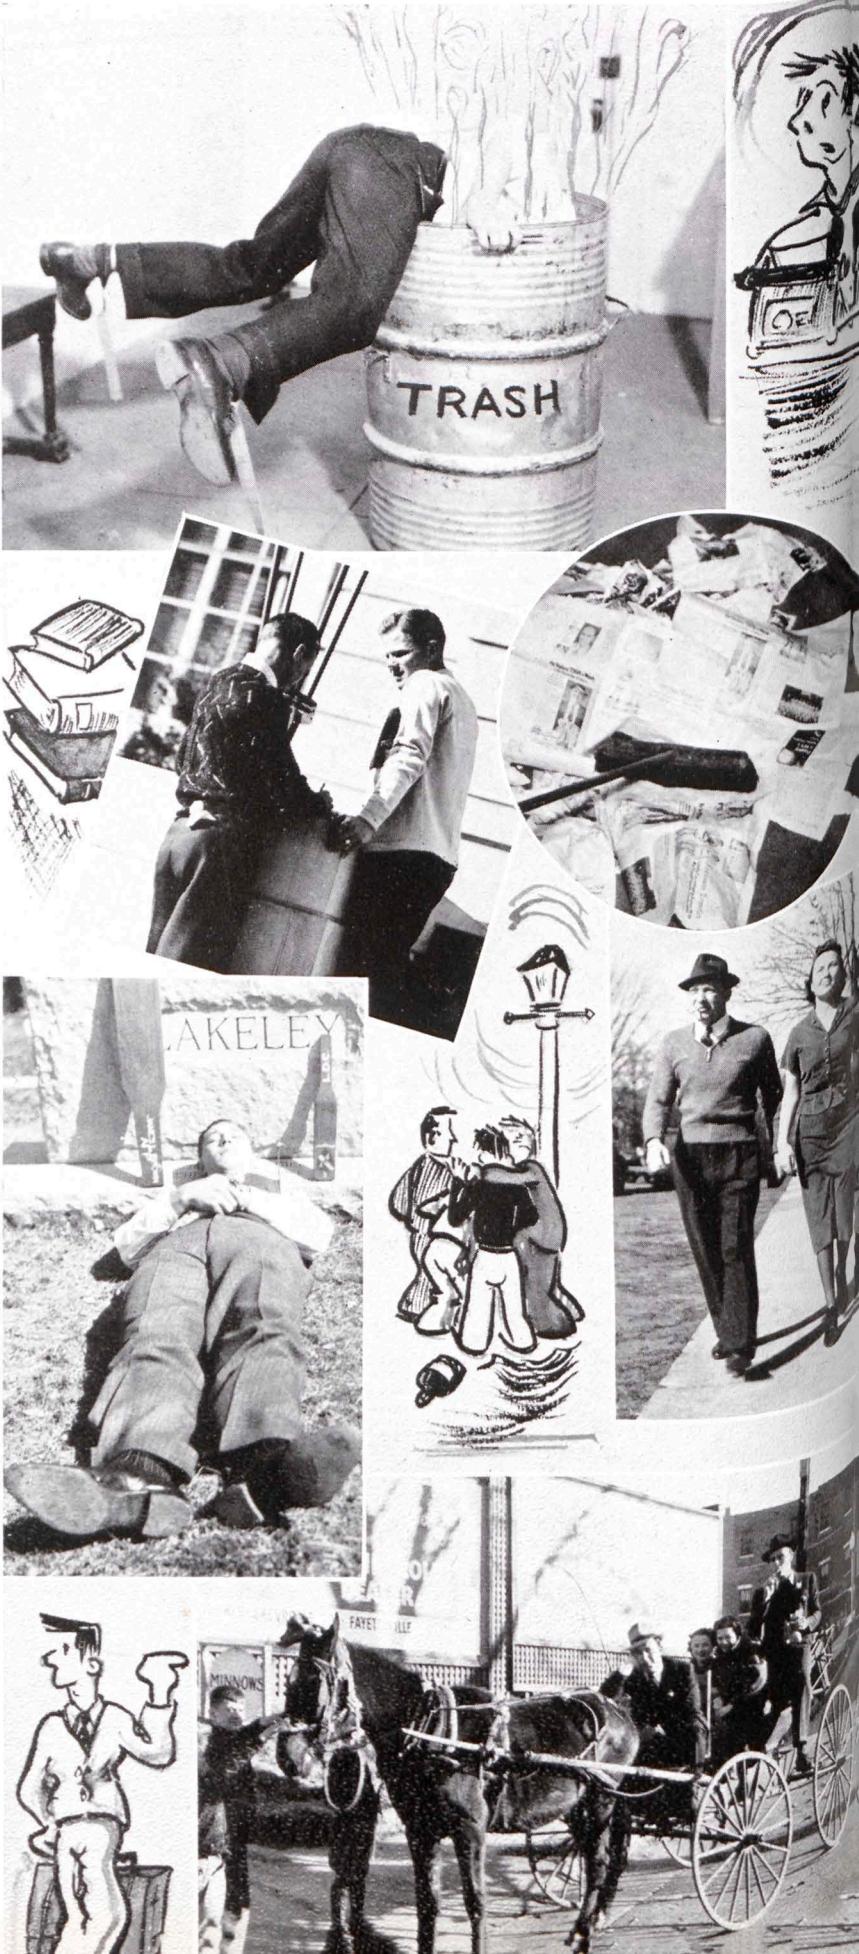

For once, Ashcraft turns on the charm for the camera's benefit . . . George works up a smile even though the credit accounts pile up . . . Carl E. and the Deacon. One of them enjoyed the joke, anyhow . . . Genial kindly Officer Burns goes out into the night to supervise moral endeavor . . . Looks like the Razorbacks are losing . . . Brain and Brawn in two Bouncers . . . A game of star checkers is no end of fun to pass the time on a football trip . . . Officer Burns with fellow members of the Christian Uplift League for Suppression of Vice.

CAMPUS POT-POURRI

"A Traveler reporter 'scoops' the news" . . . Pond and Falls talk it over in front of the library . . . Picture of rubbish (pronounced Arkansas Traveler) being removed from the basement . . . Russell Hughes comes to a fitting rest after two (2) campaigns of amateur politics . . . "Ward Boss" Sylvan takes a spring stroll with the girl friend after the election is forgotten . . . Jernigan, Hesterly, Bohlinger, and Holmes take a Sunday afternoon spin sans coachman in "the old fashioned way" while admiring kiddies pet Dobbin and delay the excursion.

Corinne the Chorine drifts from the stag line at the Pan-Hell to watch Fletcher Henderson beat out a bit of jive . . . Razorback staffers in a state of rustic hilarity over the imposing group of formaled SAI's feting Nino Martini . . . Independents Penrose and Blunk receive last minute instructions from student prexy Rawlings . . . "My frans—" (the crowd roars). (aside) ("Curse that accent") . . . Jimmy Ramsey prepares to gargle a snake, all for the sake of dear old Little Theatre . . . Independents' Gordon beams amid a bevy of beautiful babes, especially at New Dealers' Buxton . . . Davidson displays a bit of Boots and Spurs skill on one of the local shaggy mares . . . Jackson gone, Cassard eyes Sue Crumpler at Carrie's . . . Ed Gage leaves intramural mats to wrestle problems of engineering . . . "Scram you photogs, ain't there no privacy around here?" . . . New Dealers Borden, Locke, and Woodell applaud the jokes of El Bosso Stout.

THE WOMAN'S PLACE

The cameraman goes to the Pi Phi house as the lovers seem totally oblivious of his unwanted presence . . . Morgan and Hamilton sail down to breakfast sans "clodhoppers" . . . a couple of Kappa's beam good morning . . . Mary Cornelia Berry pins up the tresses and the candid eye of the picture box tells all—the picture is a striking likeness of McWilliams . . . This picture was not taken on a football special returning from Fort Smith and anyway the performers are not students . . . "Bib-Ann-Tucker" knocks off a little shuteye as the candid eye wends its stealthy way.

The Tri-Delters (you are my sacred shelter) hospitably entertain the A. B. C. delegates . . . Despite who is standing at the apex, this is not the Chinese Wall . . . A bunch of the Chi O's beam into space "where no man has been before" . . . The Pi Phi's entertain the kiddies at their Christmas party . . . All the little lambs come fresh for the slaughter at rush week . . . the Delta Gamma's gather 'round their prize winning homecoming float . . . a conglomeration of pulchritude atop the new wall along the Dixon street front . . . The Kappa's sun themselves . . . Prexy Lane "breaks the tape"—and still astride seabiscuit! . . . Lovely Laura and Bessie B. smile happily after the Bohlinger victory . . . Lawyer Trimble walks right into that ancient Grafex . . . Penrose getting a few last minute adjustments before that ever so militant Guidon pix.

BARBARIC INTERREGNUM

A bunch of the New Dealers sit spell bound at their rally . . . El Bosso Stout delivers his address for the spell bound crowd above . . . little Miss Buxton displays two of her major supporters the night before election . . . election day and Webb (S. N. E. T. T.) coldly scrutinizes the dictatorial display of Tulsa Schwing (D. D. D.) . . . A bunch of the Independents listen reflectively to the Deacon while Judge Vaughan (lower right) seems to wonder . . . suffer little children.

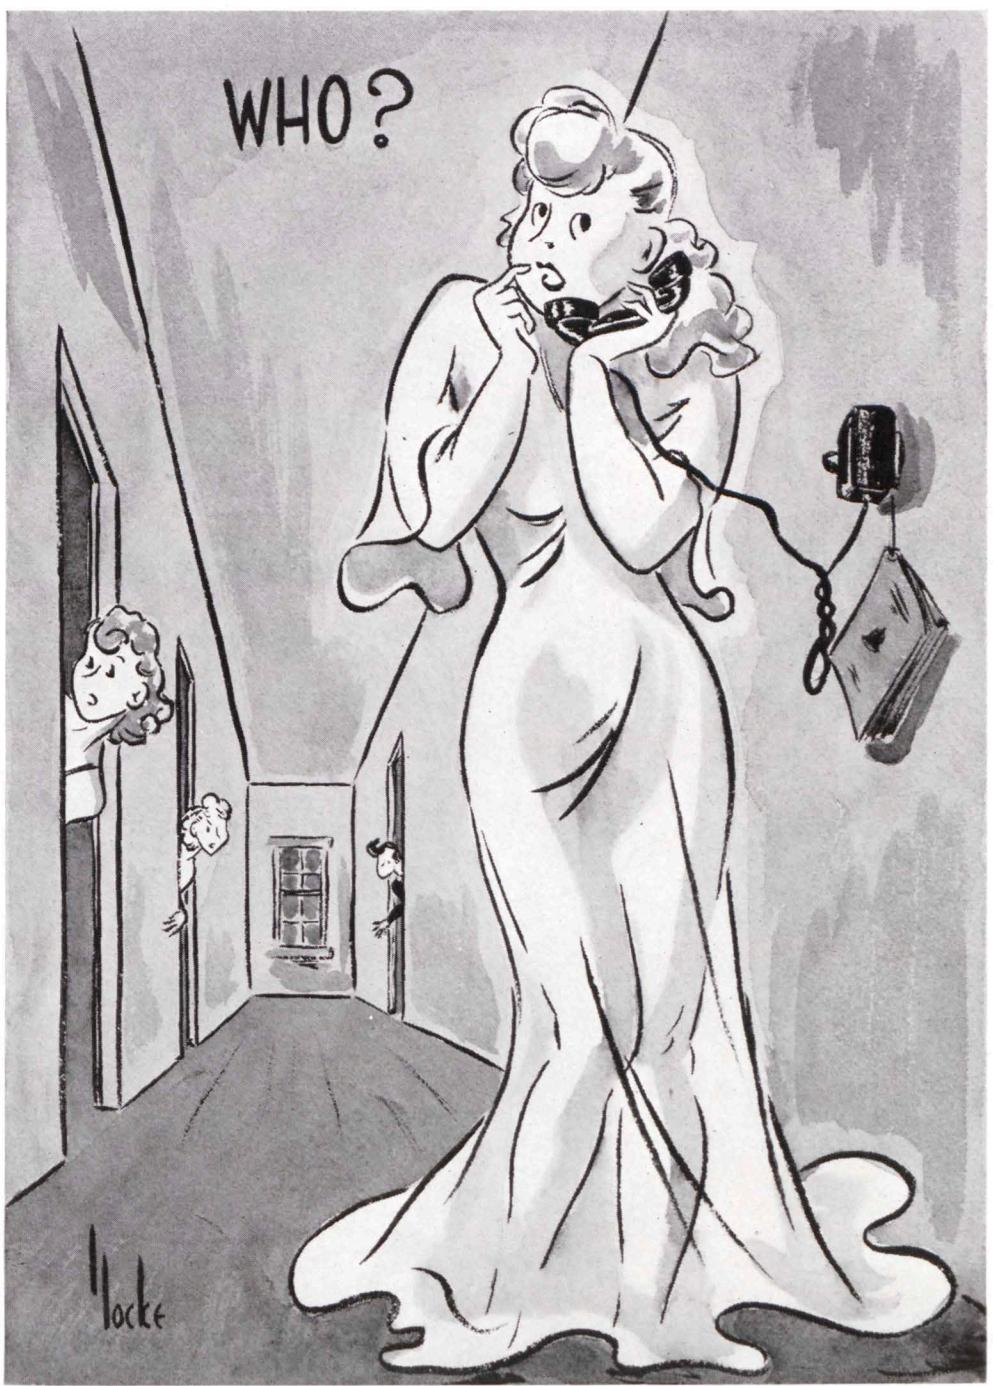

"Scorpion" Salisbury pleads his case at the first Independent rally . . . Salisbury and Woodell wish each other condolences at the polls while Hearn, Canaday, and Miles look on . . . Robbins and Stout flash the ivory for the endless stream of voters . . . "The Lipstick Kid" pins the "Bolo" medal on Tuck; Lovely Laura and Art register approval . . . the crowd goes wild as Mr. Carlson reads the results . . . Bohlinger and Gordon hand out the cards of solicitation in hopes of better days . . . Governor Alstom beams at his first audience at an early Independent rally . . . The Deacon pours forth words of wisdom and Nathan listens attentively . . . The ever-present photographer swings from the rafters and "shoots" at Business Manager-elect of the Razorback Bessie . . . a crowd in the cafeteria rests and hope for the best of their favorite candidates . . . Darnell points the finger of scorn and scores the New Deal advocates . . . Groom and Independent supporters Pickens and Berry take stock of the situation . . . In spite of all rumors to the contrary—the faculty counts the votes . . . a bird's eye view of the desolate battle front a few minutes after the polls are closed.

Gunn and Rye enjoy the Scabbard and Blade initiation . . . The Irish Mail steams up for the high school kiddies . . . The one on top is Sam Beasley at the Scabbard and Blade frolic . . . Uncle Walt gives the aspiring journalist pointers in what we writing boys call the literary game . . . Doo Baby departs for Texas and the roundup . . . Ace Camermen Crumpler and Olson display how all this group of expos came into being . . . the Scabbard and Blade novices again going through their paces . . . the A. B. C.'s put on their annual farce for the amazed multitude of civilized kiddies . . . The "A" Club boys close in "the old fashioned but convincing way".

Mr. Willard Hawkins, Editor
The Razorback,
University of Arkansas,
Fayetteville, Arkansas.

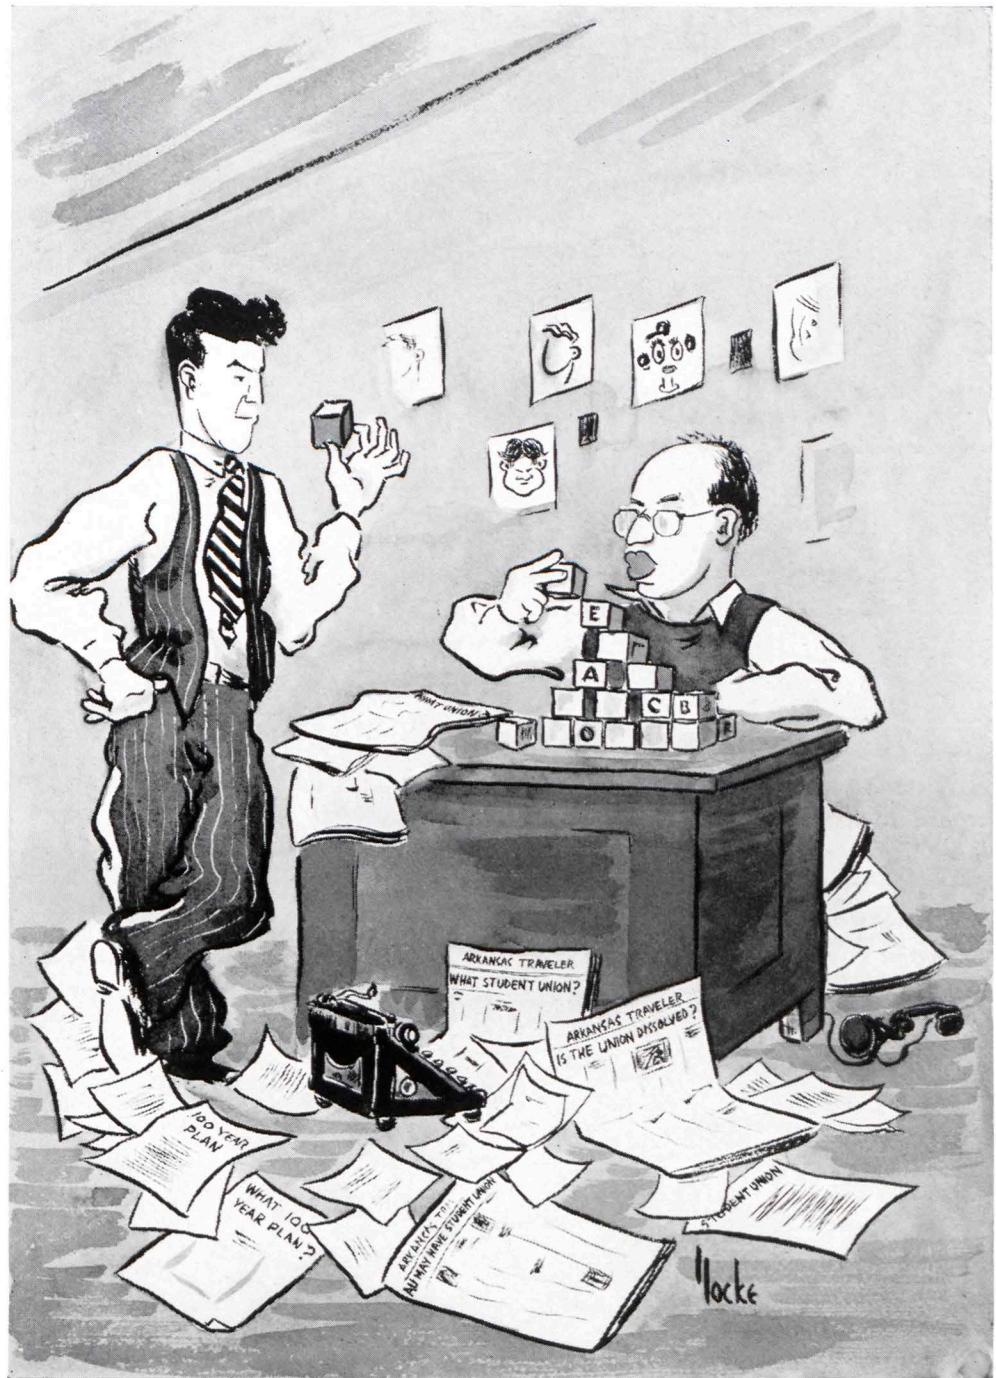

Dear Mr. Hawkins:

I am enclosing the photographs marked, as you requested, in consecutive order -- FIRST, SECOND, etc.

It was difficult to choose only five because all of the girls had grace and charm, but I finally simmered the selection down to five through consideringly.
Enclosed is an autographed print of me and print of the most beautiful woman I have ever photographed".

Very truly yours,

WILLARD HAWKINS
Editor

This editor has no intention of giving his philosophic ideas in regard to the Razorback any room in this book. Let it suffice to say that, in behalf of the editor and the staff, they have tried to give the students what they think the students want. If they have been successful, the credit is due the staff; if not, blame the editor.

I wish to express my sincere appreciation for the loyalty of a few students who have seen fit to spend

Business Manager

The Business Staff of the Razorback wishes to take this opportunity of thanking the organizations for their splendid cooperation in promptly paying for their space. It is with a sense of pride that we close our accounts and find that more money has been paid by organizations than ever before.

The advertisers who appear in the back have shown their appreciation for the student support in the past. It is fair to ask that the advertisers who help make this book possible be given the patronage that is their due.

The manager is grateful for the cooperation shown by his staff; without which the task would have been momentous.

Traveler editors have always taken advantage of the space allotted them in the annual to vent their wrath. It might have been the Board of Publications, the faculty, the students, or the system in general that aroused that wrath, but it was always there.

This year the Traveler has little to kick about. True, the Board of Publications has not always functioned in the best manner, but the Traveler can see no ready solution.

It has been suggested that only journalism majors sit on the board. The suggestion has many drawbacks. The paper would no longer be a student publication; it would serve merely as a laboratory for the department of journalism.

It has been suggested, further, that only journalism students vote for editor and business manager of the publication in order to take the paper out of the hands of politicians. The fallacy is evident. Allowing a handful of students to vote would not only be undemocratic, but it would strengthen the grip of politics in the ugliest connotation of the term.

Unable to advance better systems, the Traveler suggests that those now in operation be used as sensibly as possible.

The Traveler finds little else to kick about. In the sophomore journalists upon whom we must depend for most of the news coverage, the paper has been fortunate this year. Members of the staff have cooperated well.

To Bernard Keating, Otis Hays, Jr., Douglas Smith, Fayette Locke, and Gene Farmer, the editor extends special thanks for hard work well done.

The Arkansas Agriculturist, monthly publication of the students in the College of Agriculture, appeared for the first time in 1924.

Because technical reports on recent developments in the field of agriculture are printed in the magazine, the circulation of the Agriculturist extends throughout the state.

Dean Dan T. Gray contributes a page each month on some phase of agricultural work closely connected with the college.

News about campus organizations, editorials, and bits of gossip found in "Grunts and Squeals" make the appearance of the Agriculturist looked for by Agri students.

Each year a special issue is prepared for Agri Day.

The Arkansas Engineer, official publication of the Engineering College, is distributed quarterly to engineering students and to people over the state interested in engineering. It has become something of a tradition on and off the campus.

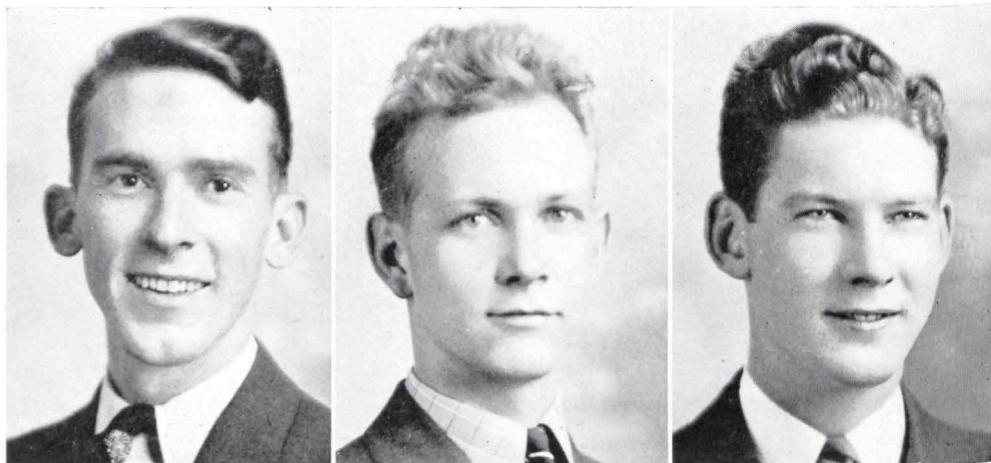

The Engineer, first individual college journal to appear on the campus, was inaugurated in 1920.

Since 1934 it has been a member of the Engineering College Magazines association, an organization that strives to improve publications of engineering schools.

In accordance with the rules of E. C. M. A. each issue of the Engineer contains two articles written by students of the college on some subject related to the engineering field. The organization limits its member magazines to 12 pages and requires regularity in issuing the publications.

The addition of a page for snapshots of students has added to the magazine's popularity this year. Editorials, alumni news, announcements of coming engineering activities, and a humor section are regular features.

The biggest issue of the magazine appears on Engineer's Day.

Monitor of the publications activities at the University is the Publication Board, which meets at irregular intervals to issue edicts to the publications heads, sanctioning their projects or demanding an account of activities.

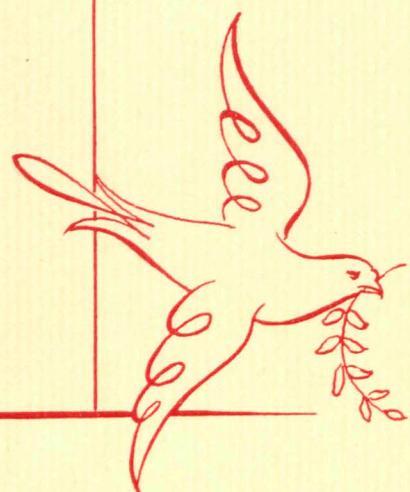

Most widely publicized act of the Board is the selection in the spring from among a wide field of applicants two candidates for every publications post.

A blessing for which Arkansas student journalists cannot be grateful enough is that one of the duties of the Board is not the censoring of news publications. Restricting itself to supervision of elections and control of financial policies, the Board has consistently pursued a policy of unreviewed newspaper publication.

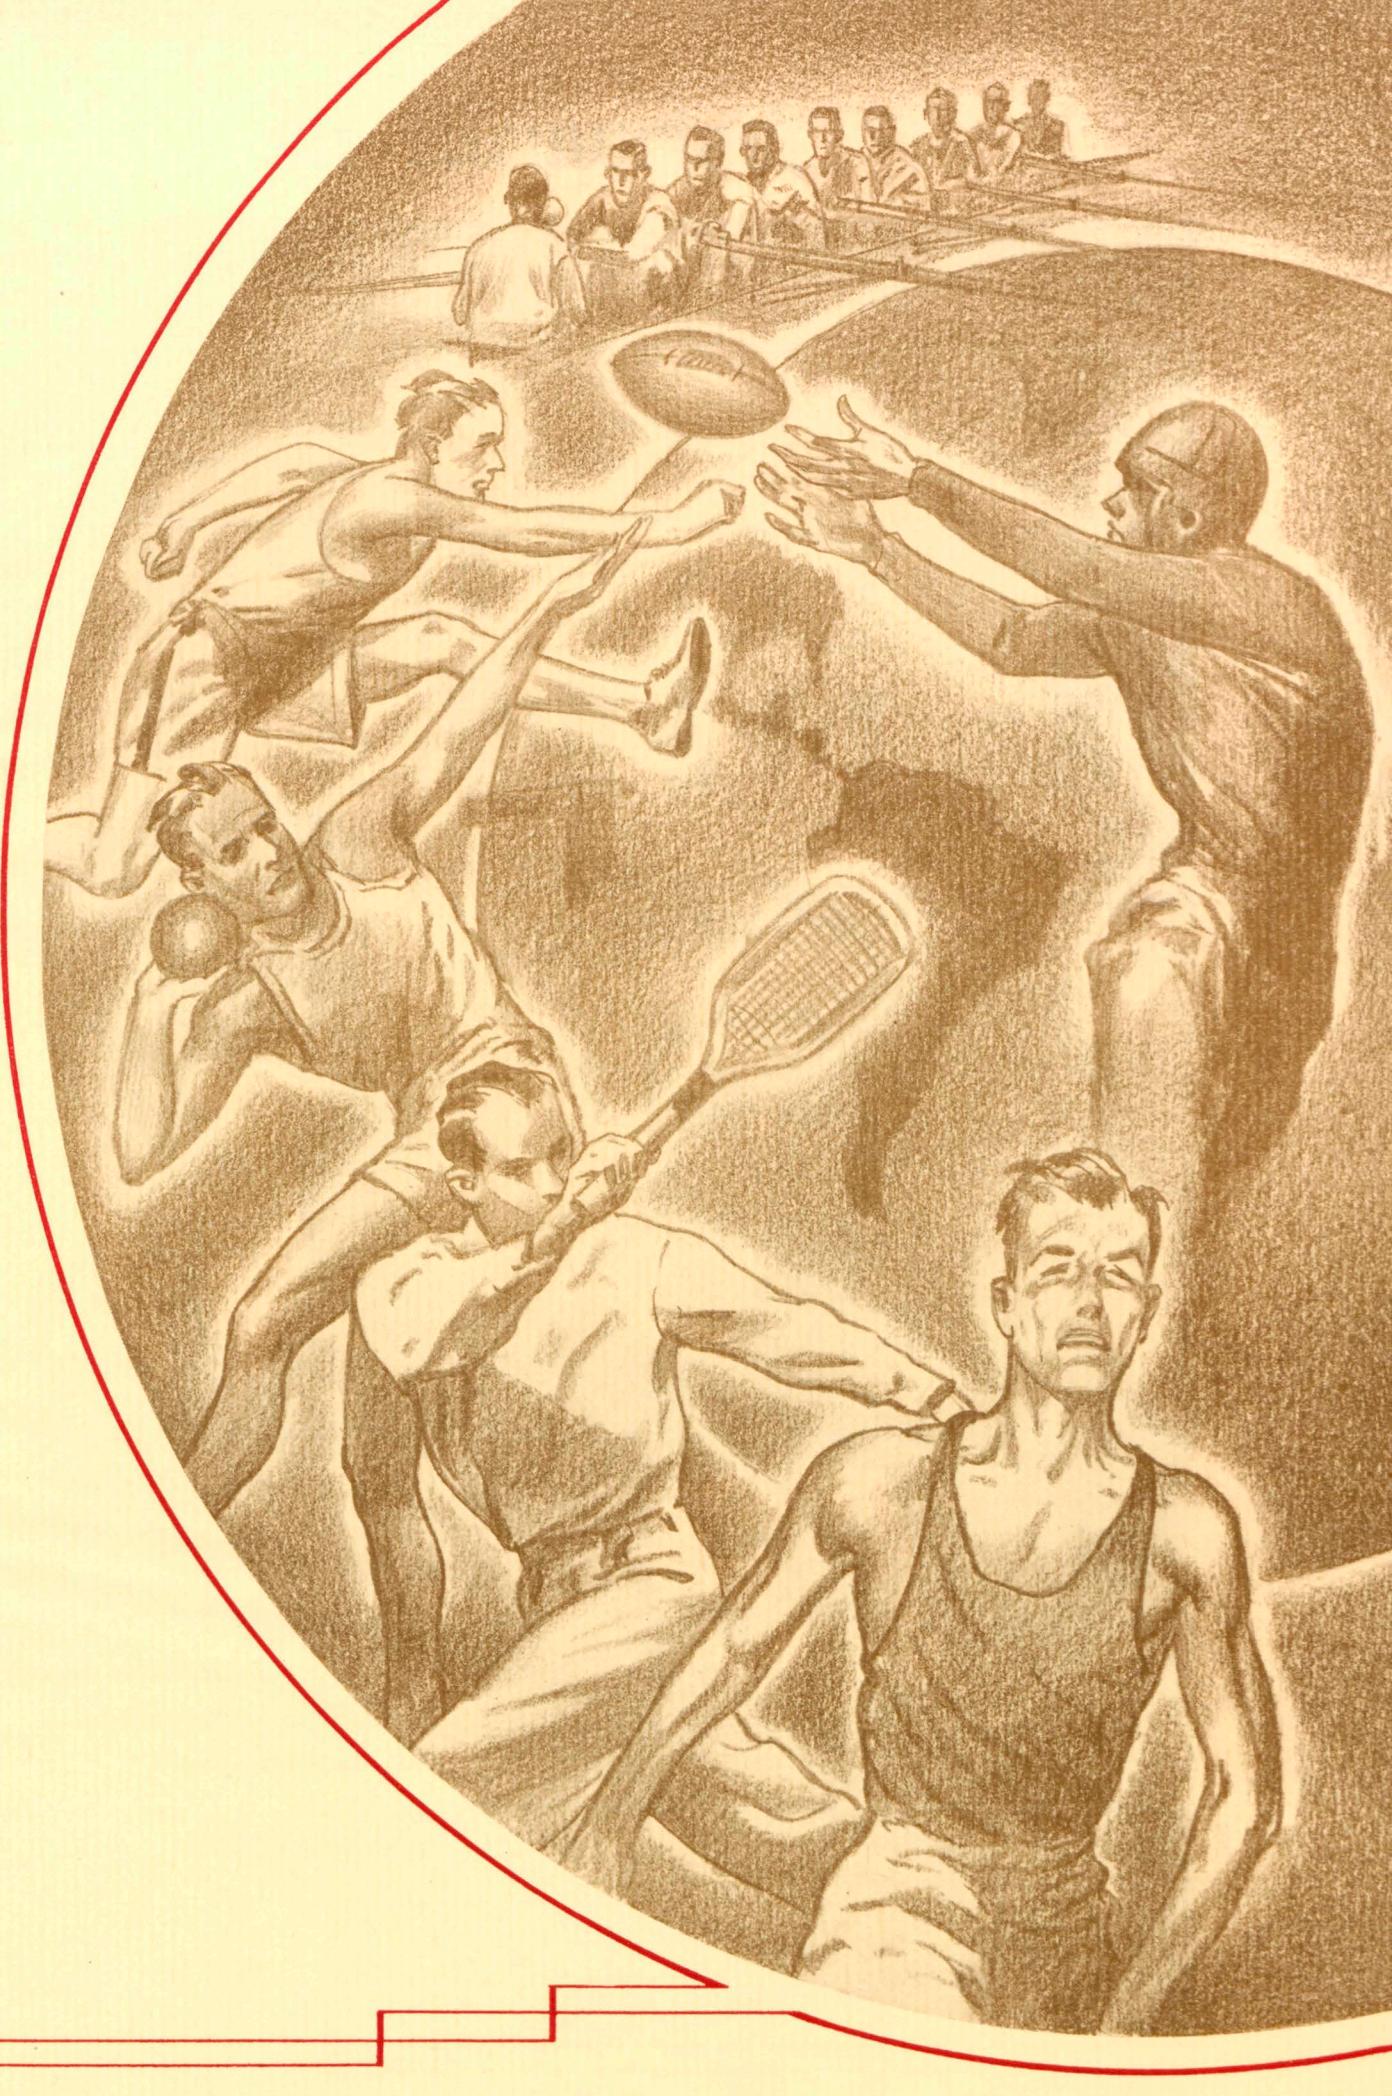

Faculty members of the board are Professor G. E. Ripley, chairman, Dr. George Hastings, W. J. Lemke, Joseph Thalheimer, and T. C. Carlson. Student members are Lloyd Darnell, Royce Roberts, Graham Black, and Ed Gordon.

1938 CHAMPIONS

Coach Rose talks it over with Robbins and Lockard, two of his all-conference basketeers.

From an outdoor court 15 years ago to the present modern field house Arkansas has a total of eight Southwestern basketball conference championships tucked under her belt for the most remarkable record yet to be established in the conference.

Looking back over a period of years we feel that it is past the time to give adequate recognition to the tall boys from Arkansas who have made history for our University. We hope our belated attempt will give some measure of credit where credit is due.

From the modern standpoint, the greatest contributor to our basketball machines of the past few years has been Coach Glen Rose, one of the greatest guards in Arkansas history in his own right. Obliging at all times to reporters Coach Rose has never been given to loud declaration of pre-season championships or wails of protests when the final curtain goes down. He quietly follows his own system, which, incidentally is a good one. In the main it is simply to score more than the other team.

To the boys who make up the Razorback roster, we have a feeling of gratitude for their ability and for the determination to play best when the best is most needed. It is with sincere regrets that the seniors who will leave us can no longer hear the roar of the crowd on an Arkansas court.

In placing basketball before football in the athletic section of the Razorback we offer no apologies. It is a small recognition for the boys who again brought home the championship.

OKLAHOMA CITY

TOURNAMENT

An after-Christmas tournament in Oklahoma City, which included the cream of the Southwest's basketball talent, gave the Porker quintet its first real test, with the Razorbacks finally landing third place. In the first round they poured in 5 points in the last 20 seconds of a hair-raising finish to nose out Northwest Teachers of Ada, Okla., 45 to 44. Lockard made 25 points in this tilt, but it was Smiling Jack Robbins who slapped in the winning bucket a split-second before the final gun.

Arkansas basketball coach Nolan Richardson shakes hands with the oldest Razorback basketball letterman, Ralph Haizlip, during a break in practice Friday in Bud Walton Arena.

Oldest UA letterman amazed at Walton Arena

By TERRY J. WOOD

Times Sports Writer

Basketball at the University of Arkansas has changed quite a bit since Ralph Haizlip wore the cardinal and white.

In his day there were no scholarships, no fancy uniforms and they traveled by train. Heck, when he started practicing with the Hogs as a student at the University of Arkansas High School in 1922, there wasn't even a gym.

"When football practice was over, coach (Francis) Schmidt would put baskets out on the tennis court," said Haizlip, 92, the oldest living Razorback basketball letterman Friday. "It was the only flat place we could find to practice around here. We'd practice outside on the dirt court."

Haizlip was in town for the weekend to attend his first basketball game at Walton Arena. He also had a chance to meet UA basketball coach Nolan Richardson and his team. It's his first trip back to Fayetteville since earning a master's degree at the UA in 1941.

By the time Haizlip, a native of Hot Springs, enrolled at the UA, there was a gym, but nothing quite like the Razorbacks' current home.

"This is the first time I've seen Walton Arena," said Haizlip, who has lived in Paragould for the past 43 years. "It's worth the trip just to see this place."

One thing hasn't changed since Haizlip's days on the hardwood — successful teams.

The Razorbacks are the third winningest basketball program in the 1990s, but Haizlip's squads in the 1920s were strong as well.

Along with teammates Glen Rose, Wear Schoonover, Tom Pickell and Gene Lambert, Haizlip led the Razorbacks to three consecutive Southwest Conference titles from 1927-29. The 1929 club was the first team to go through the SWC undefeated.

"The five of us usually started," he said, "and we did most of the playing. The game has really changed since then. It's hardly the same."

The teams he played on went a collective 52-4. The losses still sting. Haizlip remembers them like they were yesterday.

"We lost two to Texas," he said closing his eyes and shaking his head, "one to Southwest Missouri State and one to Texas A&M."

Because of travel difficulties, the Razorbacks took only two road trips in conference play. The first, a two-day trip with games each night and the second, a five-day trip where the Hogs played four games in five days and quickly returned to Fayetteville by train.

While the game has changed, Haizlip, who after a successful coaching career at Paragould served as the school system's superintendent for 18 years, still enjoys watching the college game.

"I don't watch professional basketball," he said. "I do enjoy watching the college game. I watch the Razorbacks every chance I get. I also enjoy watching North Carolina, Kentucky and Vanderbilt."

The only thing Haizlip does not enjoy about the state of the game today is player showboating.

"I wish they would just play their best," he said. "Some of them jump up and down when they make a basket. I think that's unnecessary."

Haizlip had to buckle down in his senior year. He needed 37 credits to graduate, but most students could learn from the way he handled the situation.

"I took 18 hours the first semester and 19 the second while playing basketball and baseball," he said. "I made the best grades I ever had because I organized myself."

Haizlip, who played two seasons of minor league baseball for the St. Louis Browns organization, said it was an honor to attend college with football and war hero Crip Hall, who later became Arkansas' secretary of state.

One of Haizlip's fondest memory's of his college days was attending Arkansas' first homecoming. SMU was a heavy favorite, but the Razorbacks triumphed 9-0.

He also credited the UA faculty for helping him become a successful educator.

"I had some pretty good pros while I was here," he said. "There was one little guy, Potts, who was tough. He had 250-pound tackles scared to death of him. I remember Dr. Jiles, Dr. Digby, Dr. Hale and Mary Ann Davis, who taught English. They all made great impressions on me."

Cardinals nip Pirates in Bi-County action

By JUSTIN RICE

Special to the Times

After trailing for much of the game, the Farmington Cardinals narrowly downed Greenland, 68-66. Five potentially game-tying shots were off the mark for Greenland, allowing the Cardinals to advance to tomorrow's Bi-County Tournament final where they face Prairie Grove at Prairie Grove.

"I'm proud of how our men played," Greenland coach Dan Farmer said. "Give full credit to Farmington. They played an excellent basketball game."

The Pirates held the lead throughout the first half and through the third quarter, until a Farmington free throw tied the ball game at 51, with just over a minute left in the third.

Farmington then rattled off seven unanswered, to put the margin at 60-54 in the Cardinals favor.

It would then be Greenland's turn to put on a run, scoring nine of their own, including a three pointer by Shaun Long, and putting the Pirates back in the lead at 64-62.

But, with over two minutes left in the game, Greenland would be held to just one more basket. Farmington turned it on at the charity stripe, though.

The Cardinals scored just one basket from the floor in the last two minutes, but hit four-of-six free throws to clinch the win.

Greenland would have several shots in the last minute to tie, including a three pointer at the buzzer by Jeremy Pense, but would not be able to pull it out.

"They beat us 94-50 earlier in the season," Farmer said. "I've got to think that we're getting a little better."

Jon Sallings led the way for the victorious Cardinals, with 16 points. Pense finished with 16 also for Greenland.

Farmington Lady Cardinals 59, West Fork 32

In the varsity girls game, the issue was never in doubt, as Farmington ran away from West Fork, 59-32. Farmington ran off seven unanswered points to start the game and never looked back. The Lady Tigers were held to just eight first half points, while Farmington scored 39 in the first two quarters.

Farmington's front court controlled the defensive end, allowing just three shots by West Fork in the first quarter. The undersized Tigers also had trouble stopping the Cardinals underneath on defense, as Kayla Madewell scored eight of her game-high 11 points in the first period.

"West Fork is a good team," Farmington coach Brad Blew said. "We just had them outmatched underneath because of our size."

Blew also gave credit to his guards for handling the Tiger pressure well.

"Our kids did a super job beating their press. We haven't had trouble with pressure all year."

Blew also said he had some good bench play from forward Sagely England. England finished the game with 10 points, including four of five shooting from the free throw line.

"Sagely came off the bench and played well," Blew said. "It was good to see her execute the way she did."

The only bright spot for West Fork was Chrissy Brown. Brown scored a team high 10 points, all coming from the field.

Farmington faces Greenland tomorrow at Prairie Grove in the final. Blew said the Lady Pirates will be looking for revenge from the two team's last meeting.

"I know they're aiming for us cause we beat them at their place last time," Blew said. "Their looking for a piece of us and we're going to give them one."

■ In junior high action, the Farmington boys and girls split with Prairie Grove. The Farmington boys ran away with a 59-39 win. The Boys will play Prairie Grove in the tournament final. After trailing by three at the intermission, the Prairie Grove girls came back to pull out a 44-39 overtime win over the Lady Cardinals. Grace Ames lead the way for Farmington, with 12 points. Prairie Grove meets Greenland in the final.

Jim Benton led scorers with 20 points. Behind him were Jack Robbins with 18 and Don Lockard with 12 points.

Saturday night Texas employed defensive strategy, holding the score down but Arkansas got to the ball enough to run up a 42 to 37 score. Robbins was high with 16 points. Finley with 14 and Tate with 12 points led the Longhorns.

ARKANSAS	47-54
BAYLOR	54-45

Arkansas met their only defeat of the season when they played Baylor in Waco. Floods in Oklahoma kept the Razorbacks on the train for two nights and a day and the first game had to be postponed until Saturday night. They lost the opening game 54 to 47. Benton scored 17 points for Arkansas but yielded honors to Kirkpatrick of Baylor who had 19.

The second game was played Monday night and Arkansas won 54 to 45.

ARKANSAS	32-34
S. M. U.	23-26

In the final series of the year Arkansas cinched the championship with two triumphs over S. M. U., defending champions.

Jack Robbins scored 13 points to head the Arkansas attack and Norton was high for S. M. U. with 10 in the first game.

The second night Arkansas started in front and stayed there. They held a 15 to 11 advantage at half time and increased it to 34 to 26 by the end of the game. Lockard finished high for Arkansas with 12 point but Norton of S. M. U. scored 14 for his team.

NEIL MARTIN
Forward

HEIGHT, 6 FT.

A crack shot and a hustling defensive player, Captain-elect Martin is due to come into his own next season.

BOB JOHNSON
Forward

HEIGHT, 5 FT., 10 IN.

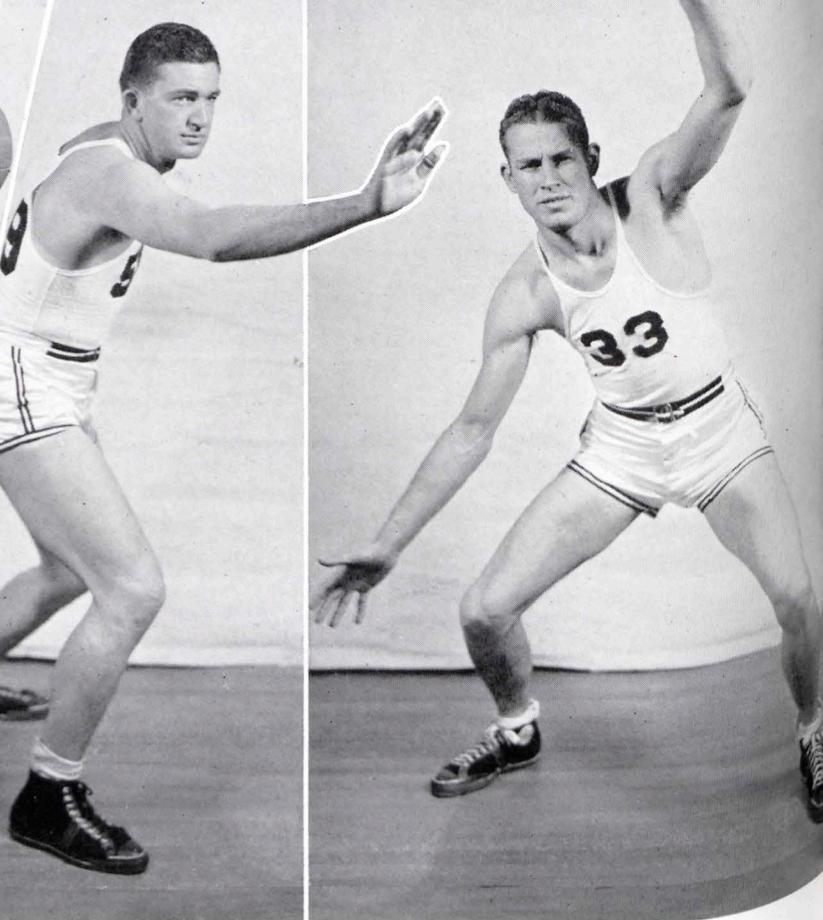

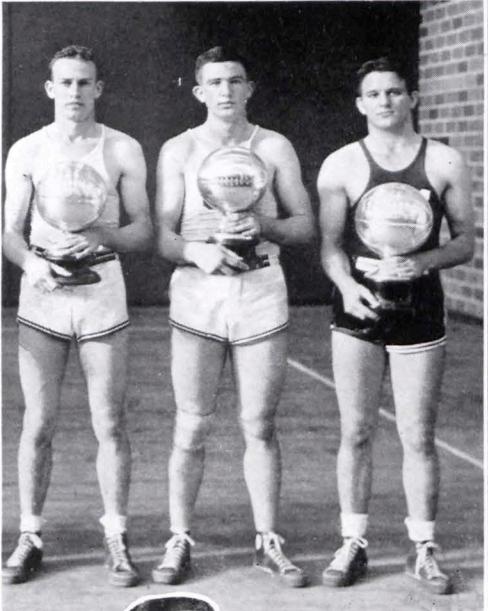

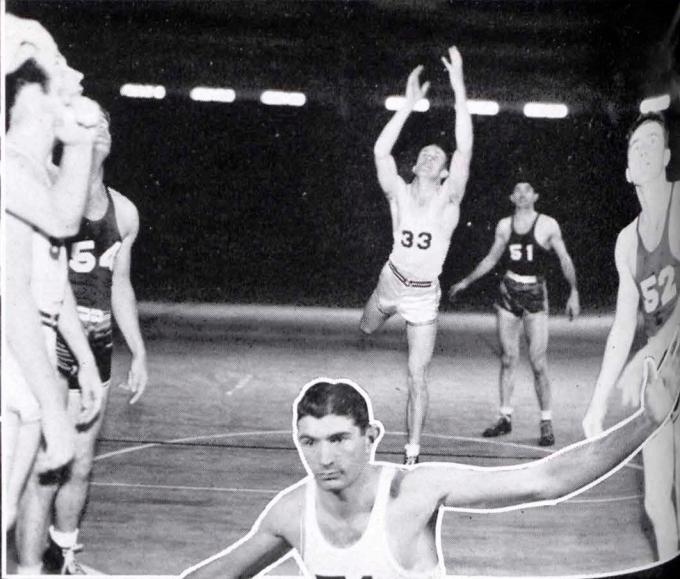

A deadly shot and a good floor man, Johnson flashed some excellent basketball despite the handicap of a late start.

JOHN DONALDSON
Guard

HEIGHT, 6 FT.

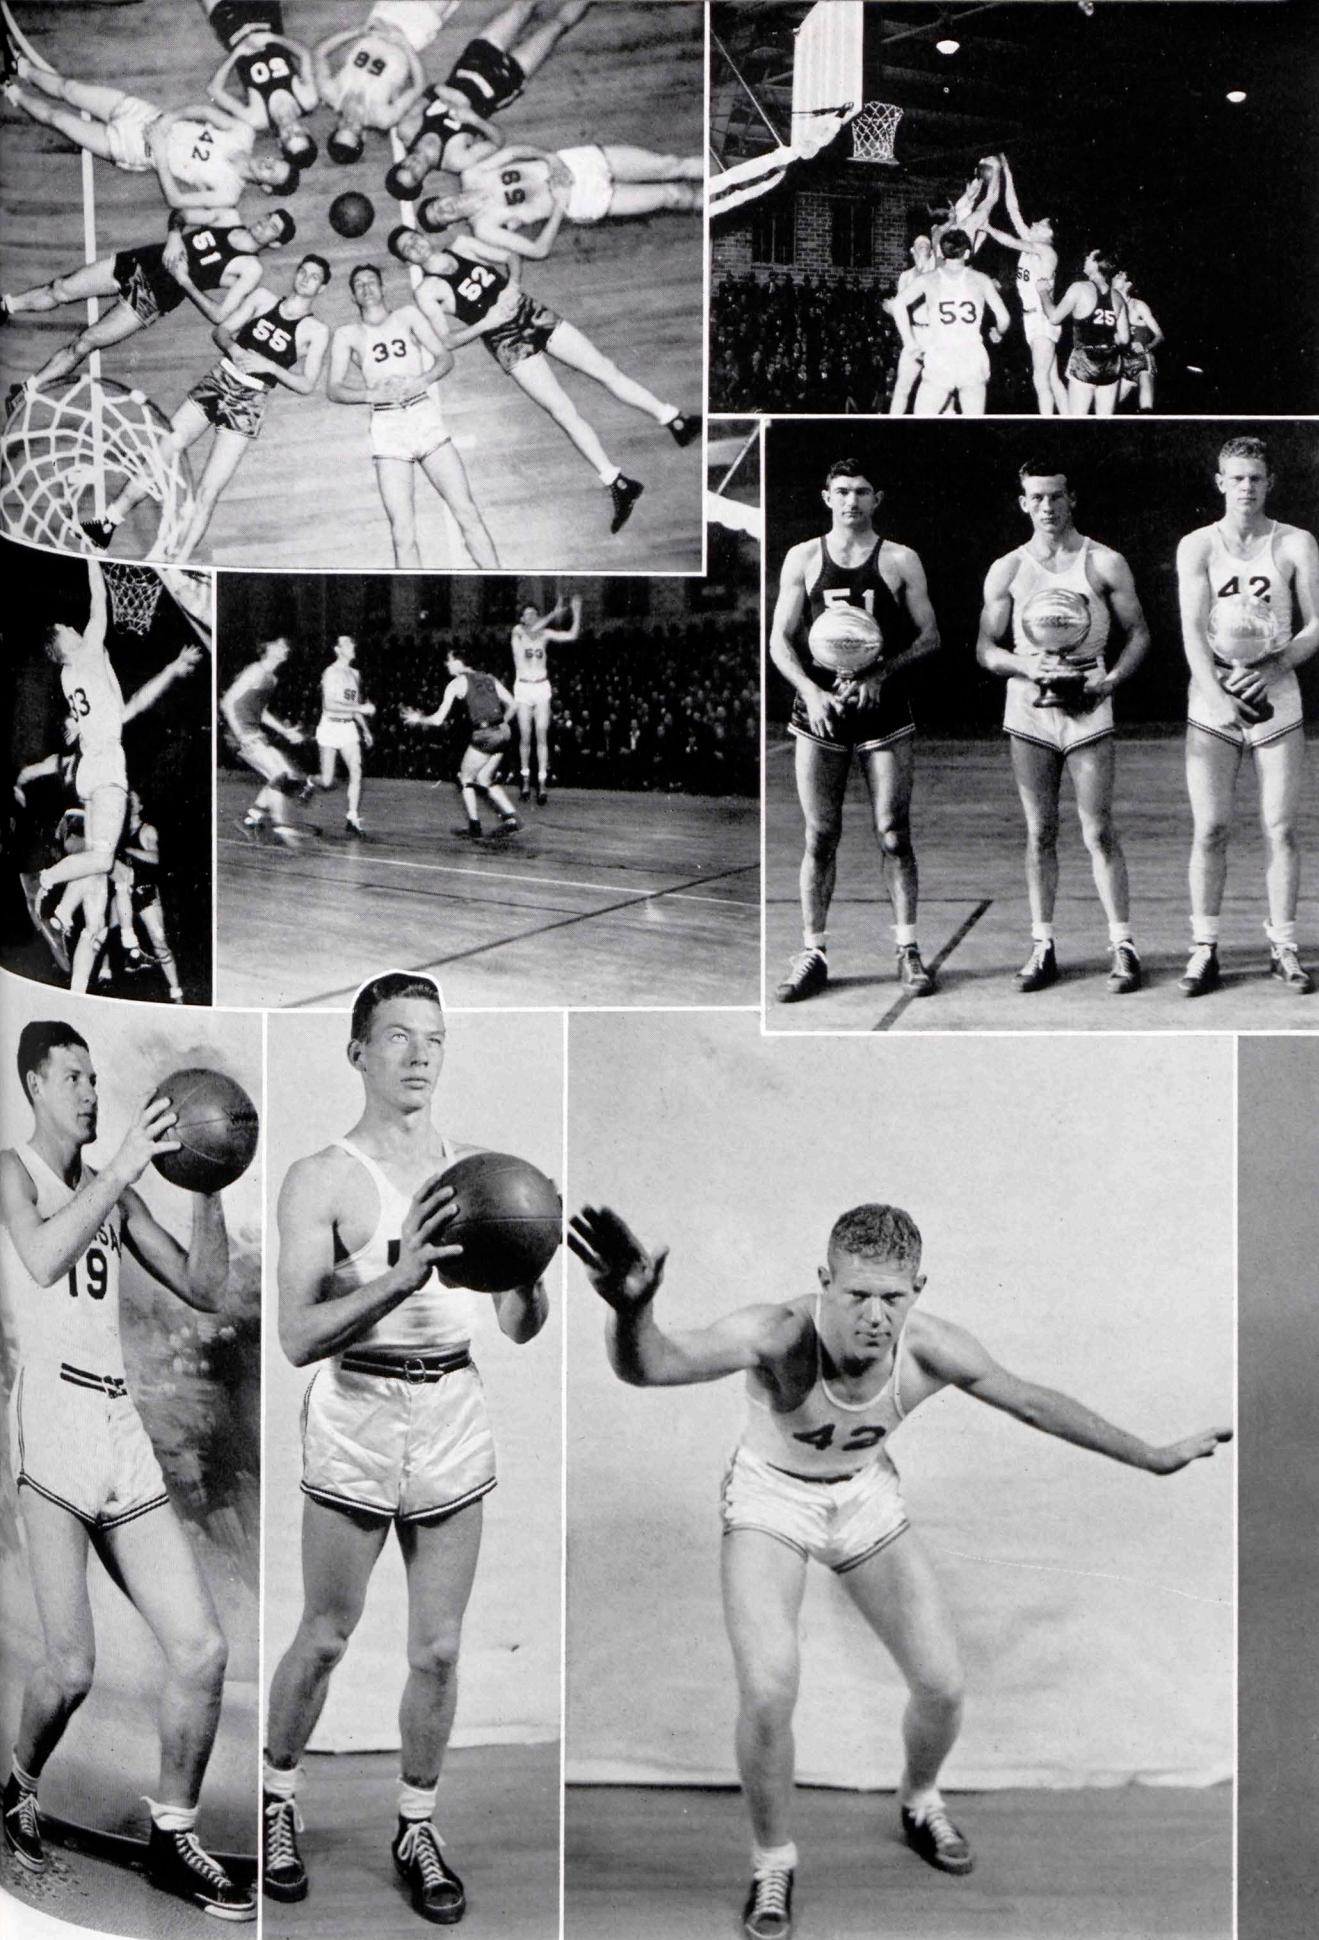

Never a star but always consistently good, Donaldson played plenty of good basketball in his three years as a Porker.

THESE SENIORS

It is with a feeling of regret that we pass these seniors in review. Two championships in three years is no minor achievement in a conference where championships are not easy to win. The seniors depicted on this page will go but their records will stand for aspiring candidates to shoot at. Their proud record is a symbol of what has been done with such regularity that the crowd sitting and watching forgets the struggle they have gone through to establish this enviable record.

ART WITHERS
End
WEIGHT, 190

Withers, held out in 1936, his sophomore year, should be a regular next season. A defensive bulwark, he is also a fair pass receiver.

ED LALMAN
Tackle
WEIGHT, 210

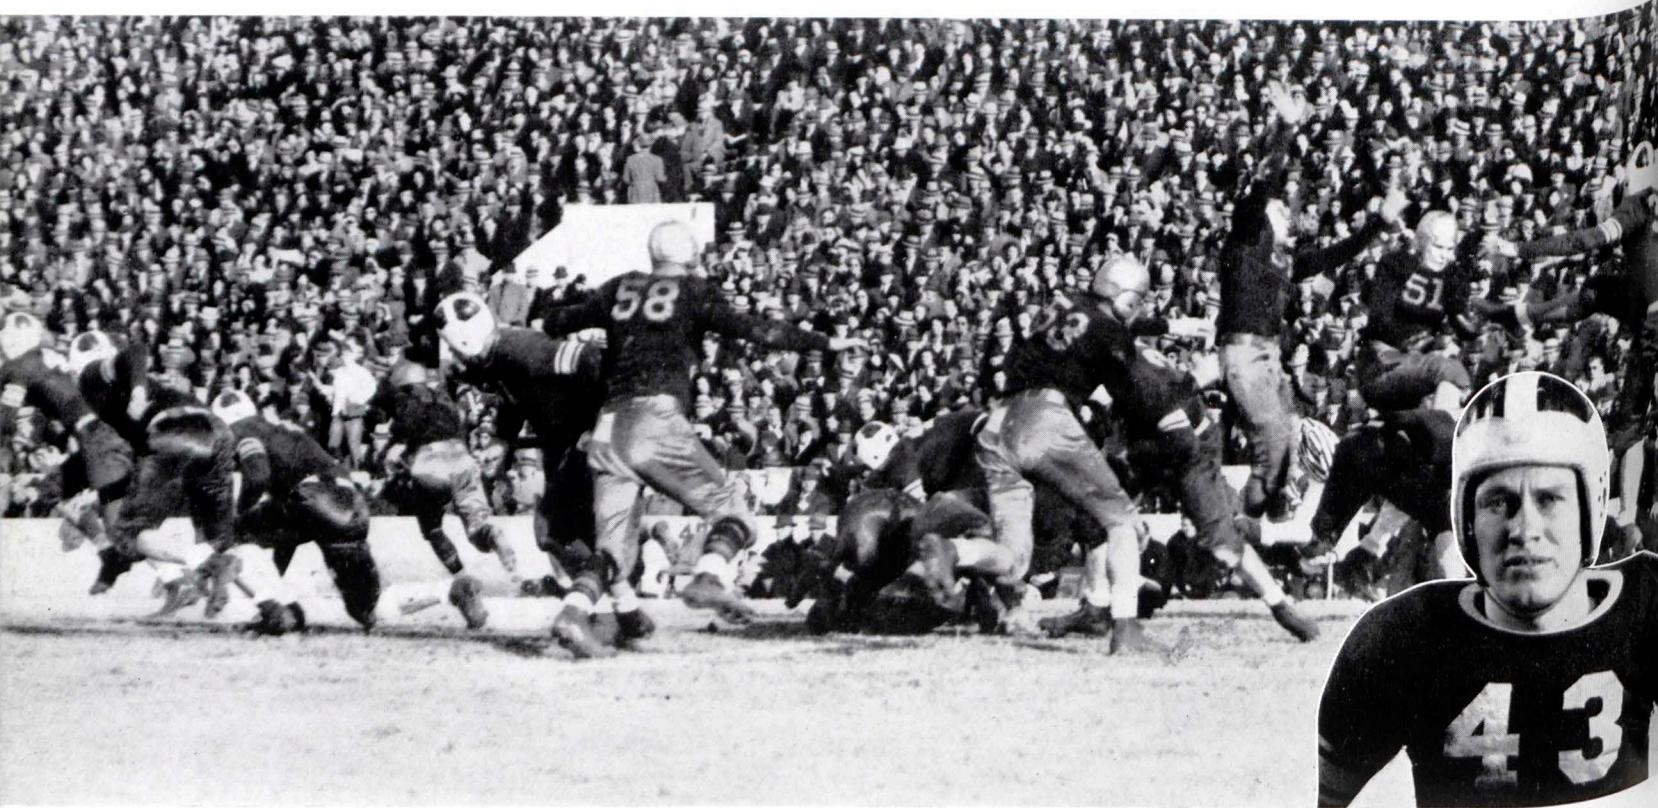

Ed Lalman was a sixty-minute player at tackle, a power both on offense and defense.

BOB STOUT
Tackle
WEIGHT, 220

Bob Stout, a 220-pound giant, was the No. 1 tackle replacement last season and may well be in next fall's starting lineup.

Thirty seconds of play was all that stood between the Arkansas Razorbacks and a Southwest Conference football championship this year. When the Rice Owls scored a final touchdown with only a half minute of play left in Arkansas's final conference game, they kept Arkansas from becoming the first football champion ever to repeat.

Outside of conference games Arkansas gave a thorough gridiron lesson in aerial warfare to Mississippi University and Tulsa University. In another intersectional game at Little Rock the Razorbacks played a scoreless tie on a muddy field with George Washington University. In the season's warmup Central Oklahoma Teachers lost to Arkansas 25-0.

Aside from the victory record of Arkansas that gave them a final ranking in the United States among the first 20, the team and Coach Fred Thomsen gained national publicity for a superb passing attack that was described by sports writers and papers everywhere as the "nation's greatest aerial show."

ARKANSAS . . . . .	25
EDMOND, OKLA., TEACHERS . . . . .	0

In the opening game of the season, the Razorbacks scored a 25 to 0 victory over the Central Teachers College, of Edmund, Oklahoma.

JACK ROBBINS
Back
WEIGHT, 175

One of the finest backs in Arkansas history, Robbins compiled an amazing record of pass completions in his three years of play.

Coach Thomsen experimented with reserves and new men, and so scoring was not heavy, although Arkansas had the ball most of the time. Most big gains were made by passing, but this attack was subordinated in favor of a flashy ground game which featured Ralph Atwood, speedy sophomore back.

ARKANSAS . . . . .	7
TEXAS CHRISTIAN UNIVERSITY . . . . .	7

In the first conference game of the season, Arkansas fought the Texas Christian University Horned Toads to a 7 to 7 tie. Arkansas missed Dwight Sloan, a principal cog in the passing machine, who was in the hospital.

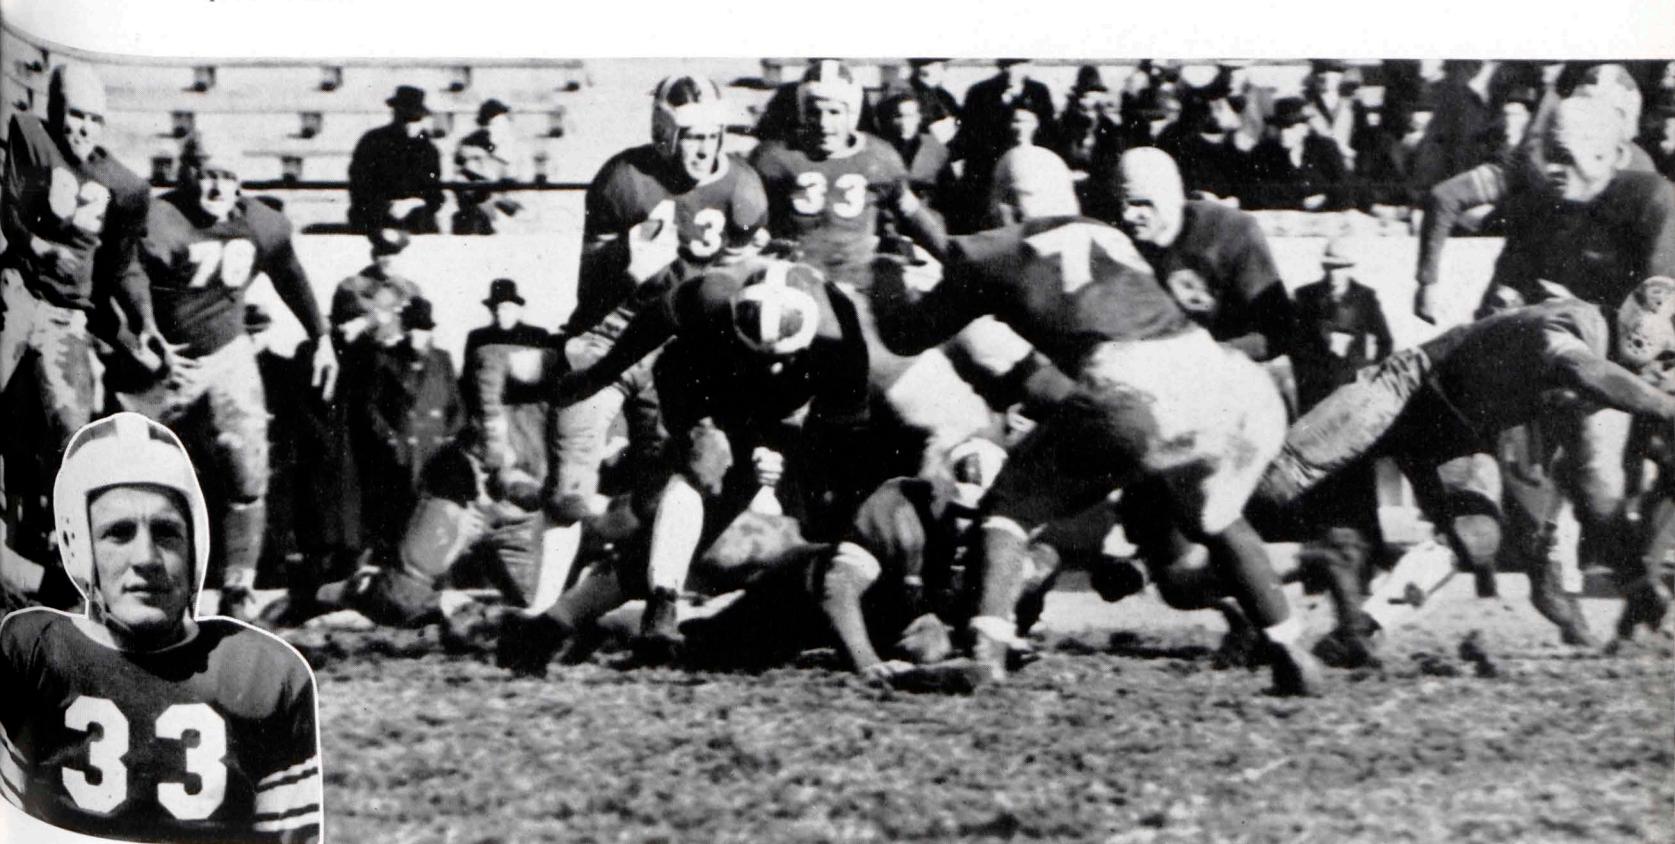

The Razorbacks were the first to score on a pass from Robbins on his own 25-yard line to Benton on the midway stripe. Just as he was tackled Benton whirled and lateraled to Ray Hamilton, his fellow end, and Big Ray was away for the touchdown. B. A. Owen converted.

Later in the game Hall, T. C. U.'s halfback, conducted a march that put the ball within a few yards of the goal line where Davey O'Brien carried it over and then kicked the tying point.

MARION FLETCHER
Back

WEIGHT, 195

Marion Fletcher was the squad's hardest line plunger last fall, and should be a star in his final year of eligibility.

FRANK MOSELY
Back

WEIGHT, 180

A hard runner and a good defensive back, Frank Mosely, a sophomore last fall, is counted on heavily in next fall's battle plans.

JACK HOLT
End

WEIGHT, 190

Jack Holt, a 190 pound husky, played plenty of football at end, where he was switched last fall after two years at fullback.

EDDIE SALIBA

Guard

WEIGHT, 190

Changed from back to guard when reserves grew slim, Saliba came through as one of the best of Porker sophomores.

GEORGE GILMORE

Guard

WEIGHT, 190

George Gilmore, a great guard, has played his last game as a Porker. He was a regular for three years.

NATHAN GORDON

End

WEIGHT 175

Called the best defensive end on the squad, Nathan Gordon, small but mighty, will be sorely missed on next fall's eleven.

ARKANSAS . . . . . 14

BAYLOR . . . . . 20

Arkansas traveled to Waco for their next conference game to be the victims in the first of a series of upsets scored by the underdog Baylor team. Baylor had been picked by sports writers and coaches to finish on the bottom of the conference, but before the season was over they had the dopesters groggy when they defeated Arkansas, Texas A. & M., and T. C. U. before they finally were defeated by Texas.

The Razorbacks played much better football than against T. C. U. With their passes working smoothly Arkansas marched to the first touchdown of the game. But Baylor on the first play after the next kickoff broke Billy Patterson loose over tackle to run 70 yards for a touchdown.

Arkansas passed to Kay Eakin to get into position and took a 14-7 lead. Again soon after the kickoff Patterson fired a long pass and the receiver lateraled to another Bear back who ran 50 yards to score. This play was the subject of much argument. Moving pictures showed the pass receiver flat on the ground with two Arkansas tacklers on him when he lateraled. This score tied the count at 14 to 14.

Later in the game, a fumble was given to Baylor and with 30 seconds to play Patterson fired a touchdown pass into the end zone for the winning points.

LLOYD WOODELL

Center

WEIGHT, 190

A sensation in his first season, Woodell, '38 captain-elect, blossomed into one of the Southwest's finest centers last fall.

ARKANSAS . . . . .	21
UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS . . . . .	10

Razorbacks next met the University of Texas at Austin and swamped them 21 to 10 with a barrage of passes.

Sloan mixed passes with sparkling runs that kept Arkansas in control. Rawlings and Cole played excellent games, with Cole earning himself a regular berth by his performance.

ARKANSAS . . . . .	13
SOUTHERN METHODIST . . . . .	0

The Southern Methodist game this year was played in Fort Smith before a crowd of over 10,000.

DWIGHT SLOAN

Back

WEIGHT, 170

"Paddlefoot," the man with the icy nerves and the steel arm, will justly stand as one of the finest backs in Porker history.

The Razorbacks dominated most of the game and Sloan's repeated passes to Benton kept Arkansas in Mustang territory and featured in the first touchdown. Sloan crashed off tackle for the second score.

Stidger, stocky S. M. U. halfback, scared Arkansas rooters occasionally by gains through the line, but the line tightened whenever the goal was threatened.

RAY COLE

Back

WEIGHT, 170

Ray Cole, a hard-driving back despite his light weight, made the starting lineup as a sophomore and bids fair to keep the post.

RANDALL STALLINGS

Tackle

WEIGHT, 195

Steady on defense and a good blocker, Stallings should be a star next fall in his final year of play.

WILFRED THORPE

Guard

WEIGHT, 190

After making the starting lineup in his sophomore year, Thorpe is expected to be one of the conference's finest guards next season.

DUDLEY MAYS
Tackle
WEIGHT, 200

A reserve who was good enough to start several games last fall, Dudley Mays is counted on as a valuable asset to the '38 team.

ODUS ROBERTS
Center
WEIGHT, 180

Odus Roberts, husky, dependable, and a fighter, played plenty of good football last year as reserve to center Lloyd Woodell.

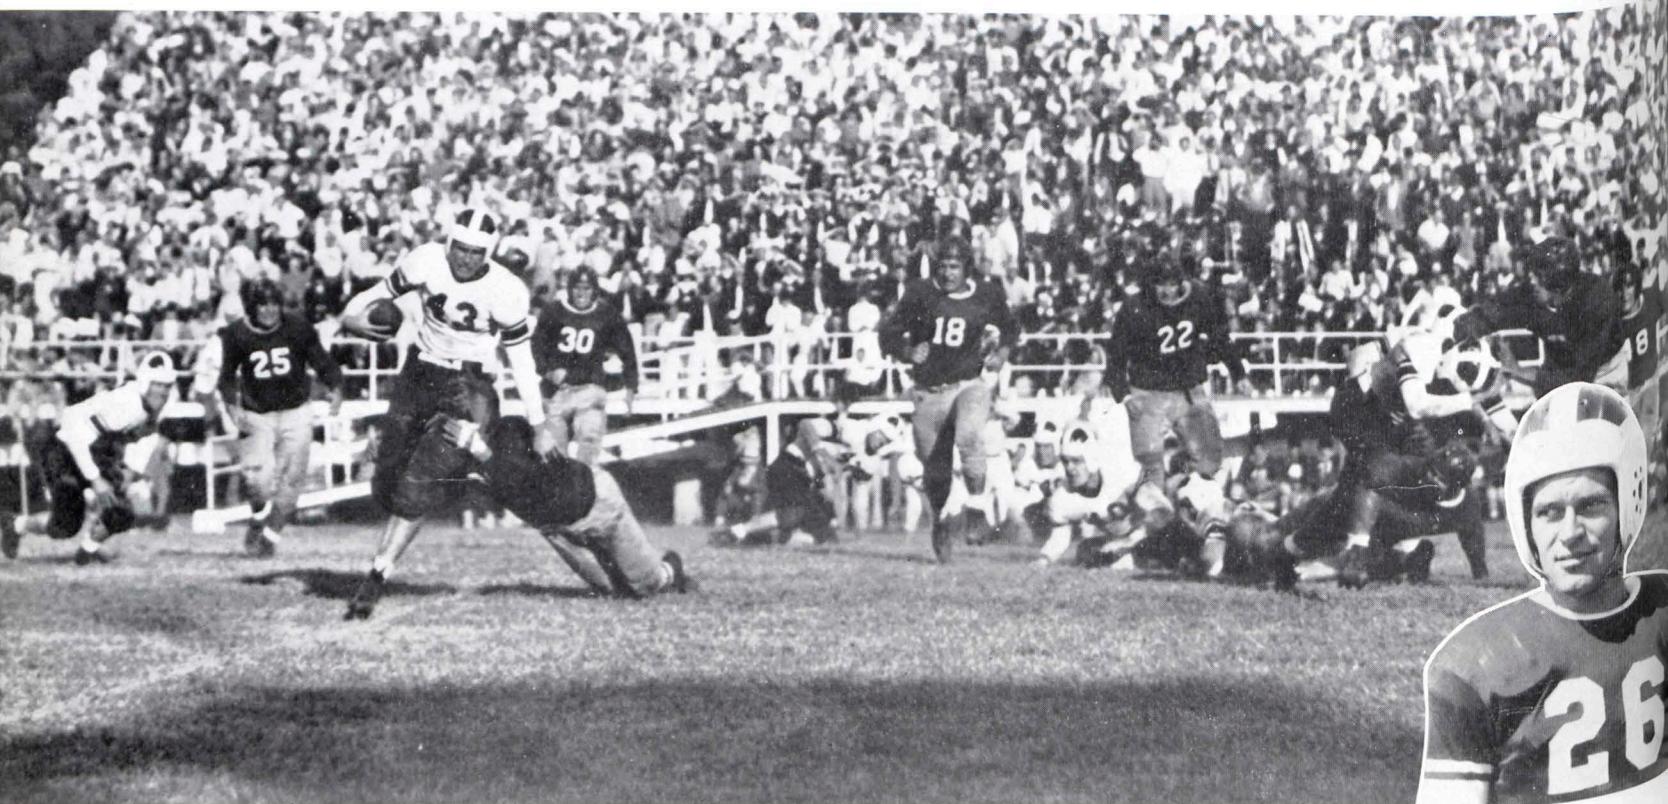

RALPH ATWOOD
Back
WEIGHT, 158

Ralph Atwood, 160 pounds of will o' the wisp, is the scamper-back of the squad. She should be a regular next season.

Kay Eakin, sophomore regular, kept S. M. U. backed up during the first half with the best exhibition of kicking of the season.

ARKANSAS . . . . .	26
TEXAS A. & M. . . . .	13

Before a large homecoming crowd, Arkansas won an exciting 26 to 13 triumph over Texas A. & M. College on Razorback field.

The game marked the return of Jack Robbins, who was on the sidelines the first part of the season with injuries, but who returned to his old form to give one of the best exhibitions of his career.

In the first quarter Sloan passed to Robbins who, though hemmed in by three tacklers, broke loose down the sidelines 50 yards for a touchdown. Later in the half Robins tossed a pass to Benton for another marker.

A. & M. with a running attack using a sophomore named Audich scored twice to take a 14 to 13 lead at half time.

After the half, Arkansas unleashed a fresh passing attack that soon paid dividends when Benton snagged a pass and ran 30 yards for another six points; and a pass over center to Atwood from Robbins provided Arkansas with a win of 26-13.

RALPH RAWLINGS
Back
WEIGHT, 165

Ralph Rawlings, speed merchant and scorer par excellent, was 165 pounds of trouble for opponents. He'll be missed badly.

ARKANSAS . . . . .	20
RICE INSTITUTE . . . . .	26

The Razorbacks went to Houston for their final Southwest Conference game with Rice Institute and lost 26 to 20 in a movie style thriller.

With three minutes left to play and the score favoring Arkansas 14-13, the crowd had started to file out of the grandstand when Ernie Lane slung a long pass to Cordill for a touchdown. This gave Rice supporters new hope. Again Lain passed to Cordill who made a leaping catch in the far corner of the field and fell across the goal for the winning points in a Frank Merriwell finish.

Since Baylor lost the same day to Texas it would have given Arkansas their second straight conference championship had they beaten Rice.

RAY HAMILTON
End

WEIGHT, 195

A thunderbolt on defense and an excellent pass catcher, Ray Hamilton graduates with plenty of football glory behind him on Southwest gridirons.

ARKANSAS . . . . .	32
MISSISSIPPI . . . . .	6

This game drew a large number of Arkansas boosters from eastern Arkansas and over 15,000 saw the game which was a triumph for the air-minded Razorbacks.

Pass after pass was completed to Benton, Hamilton, and Jack Robbins. Interspersed with these aerial bombs would be five and six yard smashes by Ray Cole or off-tackle slants by Robbins or Sloan. When the game finished 32-6, Arkansas had acquired new prestige among experts.

B. A. OWEN

Guard

WEIGHT, 195

The boy with the dependable toe—that's B. A. Owen, who combined extra-point kicking with a world of good guard play.

LLOYD MONTGOMERY

Back

WEIGHT, 180

Lloyd Montgomery, who withdrew from school in his junior year, was an all-round back and would have been a star next fall.

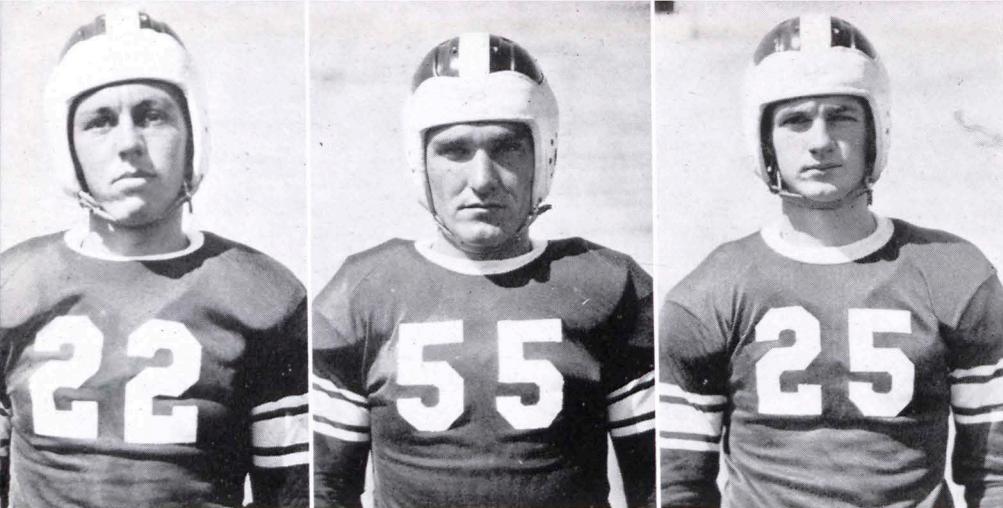

JOHN DONALDSON

Center

WEIGHT, 185

Never a regular but always dependable for a good game, Donaldson played three years of good ball for the Porkers.

WALTER HAMBERG
Back
WEIGHT, 160

Hamberg runs terrifically hard for his 160 pounds. He made a fine impression as a sophomore and is being depended on for next year.

DREW MARTIN
Guard
WEIGHT, 190

A husky defensive man who liked the going when it was rough, Drew Martin will be missed badly in next year's roll call.

Back
WEIGHT, 170

A shifty runner and a splendid kicker, Neil Martin was out most of last year with an injured ankle, but will be around next season.

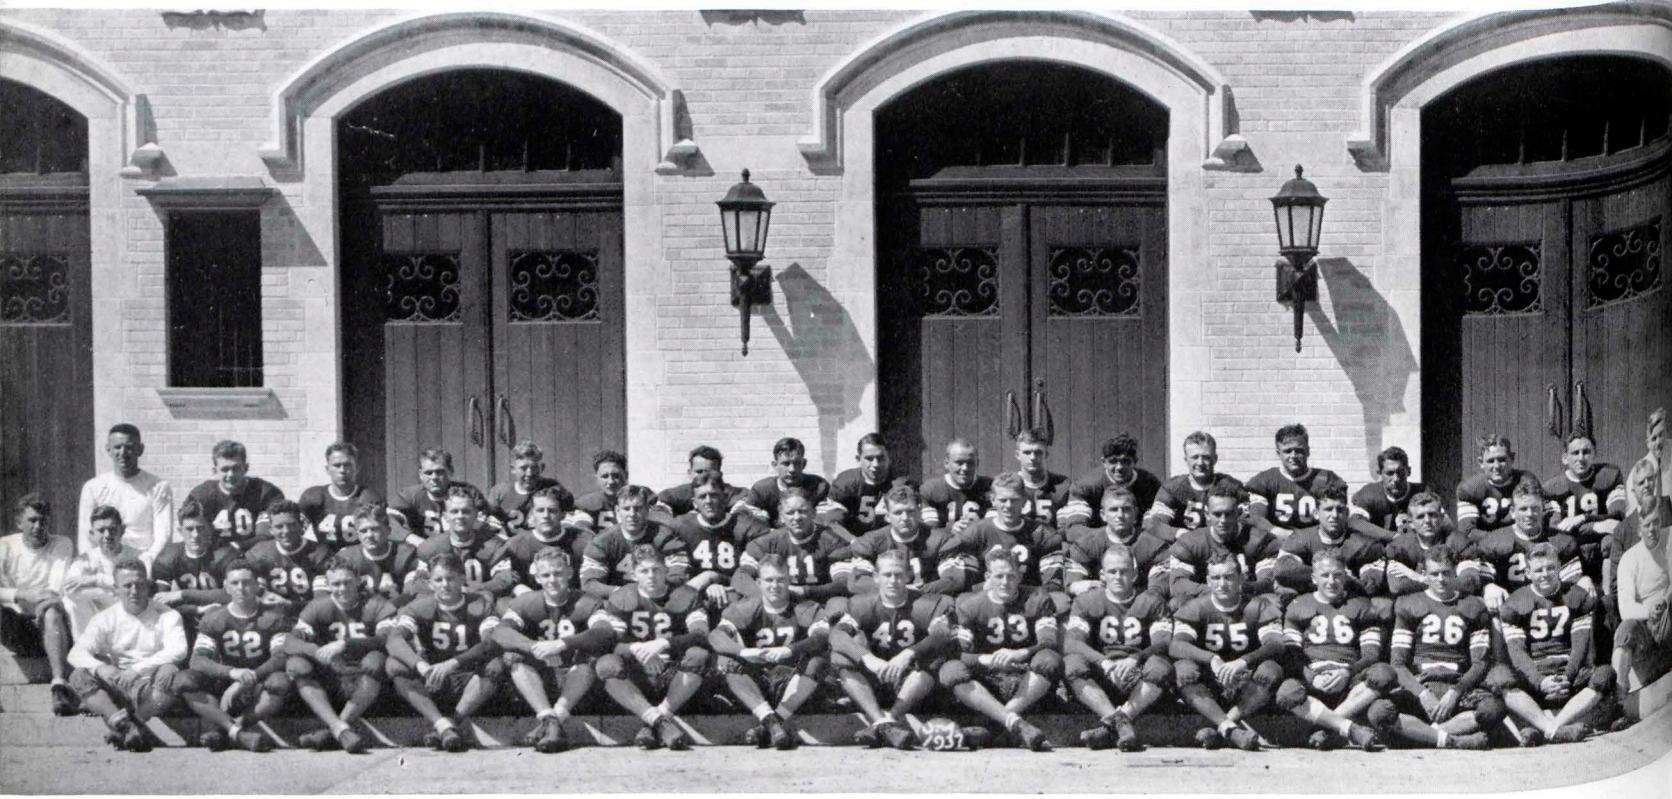

ARKANSAS . . . . . 0

GEORGE WASHINGTON . 0

In the annual game at Little Rock, Arkansas played a scoreless tie on a muddy field with George Washington University.

The extreme cold and the wet field made the Razorback passing attack useless and the game developed into a see-saw affair around the middle of the field.

VARSITY SQUAD

ARKANSAS . . . . .	28
TULSA UNIVERSITY . . . . .	7

Arkansas finished the season at Tulsa with a 28-7 victory over the strong Tulsa team.

Tulsa started with a rush and marched to the one yard line where Arkansas held them for four downs. A few minutes later Tulsa didn't stop at the one-yard line but crossed for the first score.

This marked the end of Tulsa's showing. A barrage of passes and brilliant play by Sloan and Robbins kept the Tulsa team dizzy.

This game gave Arkansas a season record of six victories, two defeats, and two ties.

ARKANSAS ON THE ALL-CONFERENCE AND ALL-AMERICANS

Arkansas this year for the first time since the days of Wear Schoonover had an All-American. James Benton was named as end on the first team of the Coaches' All-American and on the first or second team of several others. He also made every all-conference selection and received the Houston Post trophy for the most valuable lineman.

Robbins and Sloan were mentioned on many honor teams. Lloyd Woodell and Ray Hamilton made most of the All-Conference second teams and Ed Lalman received mention at tackle.

Additional post season honors came to the Razorbacks when two members of the team, James Benton and Dwight Sloan, were picked to play on the West team in the annual Shrine Benefit game at San Francisco New Year's Day.

"Catfish" had plenty of opposition his first year but with Benton, Hamilton and Gordon gone he should have plenty of play.

TENNIS

Labeled early in the season as "the squad to watch NEXT year," Arkansas's tennismen gave every indication during a series of intercollegiate matches that saw them fail to break into the win column that the prophesy should come true.

With Eugene Lambert, one of the section's best tennis instructors, as their coach, the netmen showed everything but winning form this year. Their matches gave plenty of promise, however, for a highly successful season on the courts their next time out.

Every man on the squad was a newcomer, playing for the first time against intercollegiate competition. Most of the men will be back next year.

Although they failed in almost every contest to win any matches, the members of the squad played interesting tennis, kept spectators in their seats.

TRACK

Before the opening of the track season, prospects for Arkansas' track team were gloomy due to the scarcity of experienced performers and the failure of some lettermen to report, but with the closing of spring football Coach George Cole's thin clad squad garnered several stellar performers from the grid forces.

As the Razoback went to press, the track team had only competed in three meets, the Texas Relays, a dual meet with Springfield (Mo.) Teachers, and a dual meet with Oklahoma A. & M. In the Texas Relays a squad of four men failed to win any points but made a creditable showing by pushing the winners in several events in what is considered one of the fastest meets in the country.

Against Springfield Teachers the spike flingers look impressive with a top-heavy victory, winning firsts in nearly all except the distance runs. Against the Aggies the tables were turned as the Hogs stepped out of their class and received a crushing defeat with final point totals reading  $103\frac{3}{4}$  to  $32\frac{1}{4}$ .

Meets to be held were against Hendrix College, Cape Girardeau (Mo.) Teachers, and the Southwest Conference meet.

INTRAMURALS

The intra-mural facilities at the University of Arkansas have long been inadequate in the eyes of the students. Despite a variety of games to play and proper supervision, they have yet to use proper equipment and playing fields. It is hoped that more attention will be given these factors that are the foundation of all modern games in which there is bodily contact. Every student should have the right to the most vigorous exercise he desires and under controlled supervision with a maximum amount of safety.

With four sports yet on the schedule, Kappa Sigma was ahead in intramural competition through April 1 with  $72\frac{1}{2}$  points. They were closely followed by Lambda Chi Alpha, with 68, and Pi Kappa Alpha, with  $61\frac{1}{2}$ . Other leaders were Town,  $57\frac{1}{2}$ , and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 52.

Kappa Sigma scored from  $3\frac{1}{2}$  to 28 points in every sport, with the exception of track.

Mural boxing and wrestling drew the most interest from students. Town representatives captured two boxing titles as Shupic and Batchelor won the middle and heavyweight crowns. Lightweight king was Hempling, Tau Epsilon Phi; featherweight, Ellis, Theta Kappa Nu; and lightheavyweight, Cunningham, Kappa Sigma. Wrestling title holders were Rhodes, Kappa Alpha, who repeated in the 125 pound class; Allred, town, 135; Wood, Dorm B, 145; Kerr, Lambda Chi Alpha, 155; Walls, Kappa Sigma, 165; Townsend, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 175; and Matteson, Kappa Sigma, heavyweight.

Kappa Sigma captured the touchball title in the fall, and Pi Kappa Alpha the basketball crown.

Spring sports yet on the program were softball, baseball, golf, and horseshoes.

STADIUM AND FIELD HOUSE

In the past, Arkansas football and basketball teams have played before crowds packed into inadequate stands, and a field house with a limited seating capacity.

Now, at a combined cost of nearly $250,000, the new stadium and field house satisfies this long-felt need for more space.

Build at a cost of $82,000, the new Razorback Bowl is more beautifully situated than any other stadium in the Southwest. 13,200 spectators can be accommodated on the east and west sides of the new field, and temporary bleachers can be set behind the end zones for 2,000 more. The north end is closed by a semicircular sod embankment, which provides room for future stadium expansion, and the other end is opened on the panorama of mountains to the south.

The gridiron is enclosed in a quarter mile, eight lane cinder track with a 220 yard straightaway on the east. A Half House of brick with rest quarters for both visiting and home teams is at the south end of the east stands. Rest rooms and concession shelters are under both stands.

Besides furnishing a standard size home court for Razorback basketball teams, the new $165,000 field house affords office space for the athletic staff, and serves as a University auditorium. The new structure seats 3,500.

The brains and brawn of Arkansas' athletic history may be found in the roster of the "A" club. In this one finds the huskies who wear the "6-point" badge of U. of A. upon their manly bosoms.

Their group ranges from the lowly student managers who shove the Razorback water-wagon to Prexy J. C. Futrall who muscles the problems of the University as a whole.

But one stray lamb has been gathered in the fold. The "A" club condescendingly voted head coach and brain-truster Fred C. Thomsen into the organization despite the fact he wears a Nebraska football letter.

The Arkansas Booster club, founded in 1919 for the purpose of working for a "bigger and better University and State," is the official pep club of the University.

In its ideals and its activities, A. B. C. is the equivalent of the Chambers of Commerce which promote the interests of communities.

It has been a custom for the A.B.C. to sponsor trips for the Razorback band during the football season. This year the band went to Fort Smith for the game with Southern Methodist, and to Tulsa for the Thanksgiving day game with Tulsa University.

Funds for these trips are raised by selling refreshments on the football special trains.

A. B. C. also leads the cheering at athletic events, prepares pep rallies, such as those held on the freshman field where the Homecoming bonfire is burned, awards a silver loving cup each year for the best Homecoming house decorations, and supervises the parades.

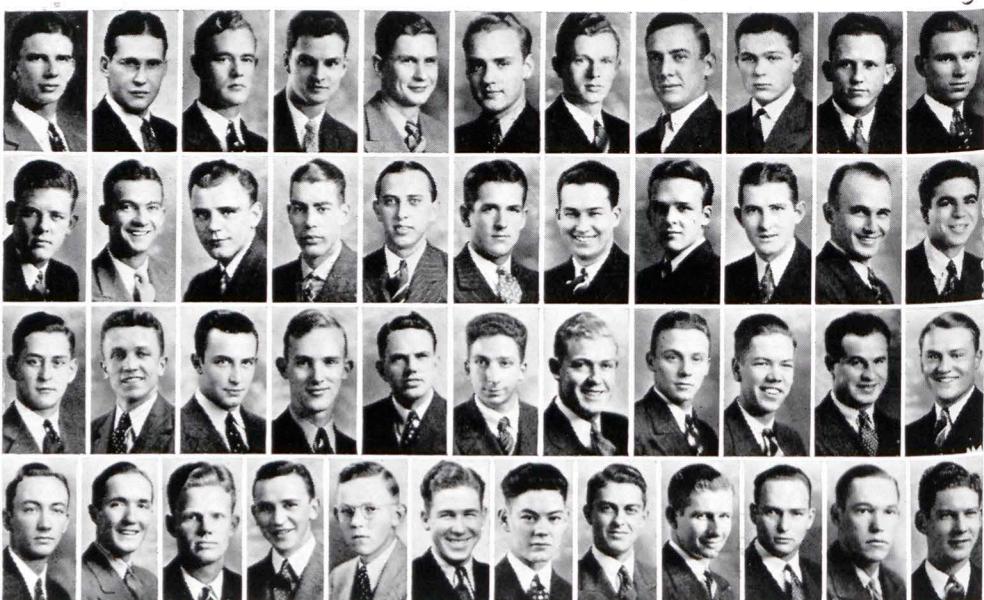

The club is under the sponsorship of W. S. Gregson who is permanent secretary.

THE ARMED FORCES

By COLONEL J. M. WHITE

Coincident with the founding of the "Arkansas Industrial University" at Fayetteville in 1872 a cadet corps was established in order to meet the requirements of a land grant college authorized by the so called Morrill Act which was passed by the Federal Congress in 1862.

During the past 63 years, military training has been continuously offered, although quite varied in nature and circumstances. Until recent years the number of officers on duty was restricted to one and when the War Department failed to provide, a civilian or professor in the University acted as head of the department.

Beginning with the year 1893, all male students were required to drill four times each week. This policy was continued until 1912 when training for Seniors became optional. In 1915 the training for Juniors became optional and drill was reduced to two hours each week. In 1916 the Reserve Officers Training Corps was established and, for the first time, the Federal Government furnished uniforms which, prior to that time, had been purchased by the individual student.

During the past ten years the department has developed and improved very rapidly. Additional officers have been detailed, the War Department has exercised a closer supervision over the instruction and the unit is now definitely a part of the National defense which was originally contemplated under the old Morrill Act of 1862.

REGIMENTAL SPONSOR

MILDRED CROSS

The R.O.T.C. cadets, by a popular vote, elected Miss Mildred Cross to the honorary office of Regimental Sponsor. Each year the Regimental Sponsor leads the grand march at the Military Ball with the Cadet Colonel and at the end of each year presents the cadet commissions and reserve commissions to the officers of the corps, attended by the other cadet sponsors. Miss Cross is from Fayetteville and is a member of Chi Omega.

REGIMENTAL STAFF

W. H. DAVIDSON
Cadet Colonel

This year the highly coveted position of Cadet Colonel was held by W. H. Davidson. The selection for this position is based upon outstanding qualities in the field of military and leadership ability.

W. H. DAVIDSON . . . . .	Colonel
LEONARD RUSSUM . . . . .	Lieutenant Colonel
B. R. MORSE . . . . .	Major Adjutant

PERSHING RIFLES

The local unit of Pershing Rifles, national honorary group of basic military students, originated as a unit of "Musketeers" under the leadership of Captain C. S. Myers. In 1934 this company was taken into the national organization of Pershing Rifles.

General John J. Pershing founded the organization in 1892 at the University of Nebraska.

The purpose of the organization is to promote greater efficiency in drill and to stimulate wider interest in military work.

A short-lived Women's Rifle Club was organized on the Arkansas campus in 1930 by Major H. F. Thompson, which, however, soon missed fire and the organization sputtered out. But in 1934 would-be Annie Oakleys Eugenia Callahan and Elsijane Trimble with R. O. T. C.'s Mike Plishner remobilized a group which is still popping away.

The organization has become a member of the National Rifle association and with the resulting hike in prestige is now entering teams in annual spring matches with other colleges. To prepare for these guerilla attacks on other campuses, the riflers hold their practice sessions at the University rifle range under the Chi Omega Greek theatre.

Although its activities this year were limited to participation in the Homecoming parade, Guidon, sister organization and auxiliary to Scabbard and Blade, is still pledged to aid stricken peoples and further national causes in time of war and peace.

Its services, as they were last year, are still available for flood relief drives and similar efforts to further public causes.

Members are elected and are required to serve a week's pledgeship during which they wear blue skirts, middy blouses, and black cotton stockings. After initiation, they are privileged to wear a white tie, small flight cap, and tan polo coat.

Only one intercollegiate athletic squad on the campus depends more upon mails than males; the R. O. T. C. rifle team shoots all of its matches at the Greek Amphitheatre rifle range, then sends its results to competing schools by mail.

Using this system, the team competes against other schools in the Seventh Corps Area for the Corps Area trophy and against teams from every section of the country for the William Randolph Hearst cup.

With the rifle team considered a minor athletic squad, those who participate in the matches are awarded rifle letters.

No weak though wordy league of nations is the Women's Panhellenic Association. This arbitration council and governing body for interfraternity matters cracks the whip for every national sorority on the campus and sees that each lash counts.

Composed of two representatives from each sorority, this group is chiefly concerned with the regulation of the annual rush week nightmare.

Panhellenic promotes closer cooperation between sororities and annually turns the tables on the men by crowding the stag line with its own fairer sex at its vice-versa dance. In April the organization sets aside a week for vocational conferences, in which women students are given an opportunity to consult with a national authority for aid in the choice of occupations.

In this connection, Mrs. Elizabeth Gregg MacGibbon, business woman and lecturer, was brought to the campus by the University and Panhellenic. During her stay here she contributed an outstanding week of vocational guidance which was open to every woman on the campus. Inaugurating this conference week, Panhellenic held a banquet for all sorority women at which Mrs. MacGibbon was guest speaker. Mrs. MacGibbon spoke nightly to University women on various phases of the business world which are open to women.

Miss Martha Reid, dean of women, is faculty adviser and the group meets with her in regular monthly gatherings.

CHI OMEGA

Chi Omega returned to politics this year in a curious coup which entailed their cooperation with Pi Beta Phi in the spring campaign. Successful conclusion of their efforts was evident in the results which showed that Chi Omega Pledge Bess Bohlinger had been elected Business Manager of next year's Razorback and Joella Berry had swamped her opponents for representative from Arts and Sciences.

Another distinction was the selection of Mildred Cross as representative from the University of Arkansas in the Parade of Beauties at the Sugar Bowl Ball in New Orleans. Mildred was also elected Regimental Sponsor.

Psi Chapter, organized at the University of Arkansas in 1895, is the mother house for a national sorority of 92 active chapters and four inactive. The total membership is now around 22,000.

The open declaration of Chi Omega is "Hellenic Culture and Christian Ideals." The fraternity sponsors a Service Fund used to publish research studies in education, social, scientific, or civic subjects.

Founders were Ina Mae Boles, Jobelle Holcombe, Alice Carey Simmonds, and Jeanne Marie Vincenhaller. Dr. Charles Richardson, Kappa Sigma, aided in planning the organization and was made honorary member.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Boasting one of the largest pledge classes in its history on this Campus, Zeta Tau Alpha had an unusually active year.

Zeta Tau Alpha was founded at Virginia State Normal College at Farmville, Virginia, in 1898. Since then the fraternity has expanded until it has 67 chapters in the United States and Canada.

Zeta Tau Alpha's local, by the way, has an extensive history since it was the second national sorority to be established here at its founding in 1903.

Government of the sorority is vested in a grand chapter composed of five officers. Central office of the fraternity is in Beaumont, Texas. There is a scholarship loan fund, not necessarily limited to members of the sorority.

Epsilon chapter was established at the University of Arkansas on December 10, 1903, and was the second national women's fraternity on the campus. Epsilon was the fourth established chapter of the fraternity.

PI BETA PHI

Pi Beta Phi awoke from its habitual slumber this year to win the Campus Queen race for the first time in its history, elect Alice Henry vice-president of Associated Students, and make the highest grade average of all sororities and fraternities for the first semester.

Founded at Monmouth College, Illinois, in 1867, Pi Beta Phi's Arrow is now worn by approximately 25,000 girls. It has 78 active chapters in United States and Canada. It was the first organization of college women founded with the aims and policies of a national fraternity.

Charitable enterprise of the order is the settlement school maintained by voluntary contributions of members and alumnae at Gatlinburg, Tennessee. It was established as a memorial to the 12 founders of Pi Beta Phi in 1912. Eleven grades of work are offered in its eight buildings. The enrollment is over 150; the teaching staff is nine.

The local, Arkansas Alpha, chapter was founded in 1909. A $40,000 house, completed in 1931, is the home of the local chapter.

The publication is the Arrow.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Tri-Delt drew a large measure of its strength in Pledge Week from neighboring states when they stole off a large share of the girls from Tulsa and Joplin. Famous as dancers, the Joplin girls made Tri-Delt popular when the band began to swing.

Delta Delta Delta was founded at Boston University in 1888. Founders were Eleanor Dorcas Pond and Ida Shaw Martin. There are now 76 college and 80 alumnae chapters in the United States and Canada. Delta Delta Delta now has close to 20,000 members.

The local chapter, Delta Iota, was granted a charter in 1913. Tri-Delts from all over the state return for the Delta banquet given on the anniversary of the granting of the charter.

Three endowment funds, the National, the Trident, and the Visiting Endowment Funds, are used for altruistic purposes among college women. The three publications are the Triglyphe, the Triglyph, and the Trident.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

Local big-wigs of Kappa Kappa Gamma on the Arkansas campus are Ruth Penrose, vice-president of the associated students, and little Marian Hamp who reigned as queen on the George Washington float at the Arkansas-Washington grid tussle in Little Rock this year.

With a present membership of well over 17,000, Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded in 1870 at Monmouth college, Monmouth, Illinois. Gamma Nu, the local chapter and one of 63, was established on the Arkansas campus in 1925.

Gamma Nu contributes annually to five philanthropic funds sponsored by the sorority. The Students' Aid Fund was founded in 1902 as a memorial to the founders. Now totaling over $52,000, the fund is available for scholarship loans to women students in colleges and universities where Kappa has a chapter. Other funds are the Rose McGill Fund, established to give emergency financial aid to Kappas; the Endowment Fund, to assist with the financing of chapter houses; the Key Publication Fund, for financing the fraternity's quarterly magazine, The Key; and the recently established Hearthstone Fund, for establishing club houses where Kappas may find social security at a minimum cost. Through this fund a Hearthstone was established this year at Winter Park, Florida.

DELTA GAMMA

Delta Gamma's proximity to the Sigma Chi house saw the lodge serve as a constant foil for the White Cross serenades, but DG's still proved partial to the men of Theta Kappa Nu.

Arkansas Delta Gammas call about 14,000 women "sister" and speak of 49 other active chapters, 45 alumnae chapters, and 52 alumnae associations.

Organized at the Oxford Female Institute, known as the Lewis School, at Oxford, Mississippi, on January 2, 1874, Delta Gamma provides a $60,000 student loan fund to assist worthwhile undergraduates, issues the annual "Anchora," and has erected a permanent tribute to Delta Gamma's service during the World War in "The Delta Gamma Clinic" at Marchienne, Belgium.

Alpha Omega chapter was installed at the University of Arkansas April 10, 1930.

Newest of the organizations on the campus is the local sorority, Theta Gamma Phi, founded here this year.

The sorority was founded in Carnall Hall by Kimmie Jane Davis, Edwina Green, Pearl Jefferson, Mary McFarland, Helen Ramey, Robbie Ramey, and Colleen Stockford.

The purpose is to provide a center for social contact between congenial girls and to give them a greater opportunity to share in the social life of the campus.

The organization admits the possibility of national expansion. Colors are blue and silver, and the flower is the white carnation.

Sponsor is Dorothy Marie Crepps.

Proceeding on the theory that fraternities are the largest and most cohesive organizations on the campus, fraternity leaders organized under the heading of the Interfraternity Council to promote the compatibility of fraternity and University, with the specific interests of the latter in view. The Interfraternity Council serves also as the stabilizing unit among the fraternities of the campus. Its influence has become even more widespread this year, as a result of the merging of a great deal of its activities with those of Pan-Hellenic.

Twenty-four members, two from each fraternity, comprise the membership of the Interfraternity Council. Beginning this year members will be presented with keys.

Several measures have been introduced this year before the group and have been handled with decision. A complete revamping of the rushing process was made; the problem of long-distance telephone calls, an ancient fraternity difficulty, was discussed, with the decision that such calls will no longer be allowed in the houses; the council secured the services of Fletcher Henderson and his orchestra to play for the interfraternity dance.

KAPPA SIGMA

Kappa Sigma, the Union Club of the campus, this year stood calmly by while the rest of the student body fumed and fretted in the turmoil of campus politics and its attendant chicanery.

First fraternity at the University, Xi Chapter of Kappa Sigma was founded here in 1890 by Dr. J. C. Futral, University president, Dr. George Vaughan of the school of law, and others. During the period of fraternity banishment the group existed as the Richardson Club, named after Dr. Charles Richardson, a founder of Chi Omega.

The national group was organized at the University of Virginia in 1869, now has 109 members. Its publications are the official monthly magazine, Caduceus, The Star and Crescent, Address Book, Homes, History of Kappa Sigma, The Song Book, and the Kappa Sigma Pledge Book.

Pride of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon chapter here in their new-modeled house on the hill was tried but survived this year when government-financed construction went on across the street to erect a new dormitory as competition.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded in 1856 by eight students at the University of Alabama. In its early days it remained in the South, but began to move into the North shortly after the Civil War. At present the chapters run to 108 actives with an initiated membership of over 37,000. There are 105 alumni associations in the United States and one in Paris, France.

The local chapter, Arkansas Upsilon, was established in 1894.

Publications are fraternity histories, directories, secret publications, and the periodical magazine, "The Record," which is a quarterly with a circulation of 30,000.

KAPPA ALPHA

The Kappa Alphas are Southern Gentlemen, but the Kappa Alphas are also human, and when election returns were announced this spring they whooped with joy as they heard that Gail Borden, whom they had just chosen as their president for next year, won his race for the position of business manager of the Traveler.

As Southern Gentlemen, the fraternity, founded in 1865 at Washington and Lee University, has confined its 67 chapters to schools in the South.

Alpha Omicron was organized here in 1895. The local order had existed as a club before becoming affiliated with the national fraternity.

Kappa Alpha is organized in seven provinces officiated by Province Commanders, Secretaries, and Alumni Historians. National officers are Knight Commander, Grand Historian, and Chief Alumnus. Prof. Allan Humphreys, member of the local chapter and personnel director at the University, is Grand Purser.

Official publications are the Kappa Alpha Journal, the Special Messenger, Directory, and Kappa Alpha Song Book.

S I G M A N U

Situated midway between fraternity row and sorority hill, Sigma Nu can well afford to serve as arbiter in Hellenic disputes, so when the Greeks and the utility barons came to blows over telephone tolls it was a Sigma Nu who presented the case, and won a decision, for campus fraternities and sororities.

Sigma Nu has always been a campaigning organization. Founded at Virginia Military Institute in 1869 as the Legion of Honor, it was organized to fight the unduly powerful influence of another secret society.

Two of the three founders of Sigma Nu were from Arkansas. They were James F. Hopkins, recognized leader in the founding of the fraternity, of near Memphis, and Greenfield Quarles of Helena.

There are 101 active chapters with a total membership of about 35,000. Official publications are the Delta, quarterly periodical, the Sigma Nu Song Book, and The Story of Sigma Nu, a history of the fraternity.

Gamma Upsilon chapter was established on the campus in 1904, largely through the work of W. Terry Fields of Little Rock.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

Instead of riding the fence, Pi Kappa Alpha rode both tickets, and although they lost a publications race the PiKA's saw Bob Stout, a wearer of the Garnet and the Gold, elected president of Associated Students. The Garnet and the Gold became publicized, too, when PiKA entered a nattily outfitted basketball squad into intramural competition and cleaned up.

The fraternity was founded at the University of Virginia in 1868 and now has 79 active chapters and 25,000 members.

Five times each year comes the Shield and Diamond, official PiKA publication which contains news and topics from all chapters. The organization also has a secret publication, the Dagger and Key.

Alpha Zeta chapter was organized here in 1904.

Sigma Chi won their second editor of the Traveler in recent years when Doug Smith, pledge, came out of the spring tussle on top.

Sigma Chi was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, in 1855 by Thomas C. Bell, James P. Caldwell, F. H. Lockwood, who, with the exception of Lockwood, had been members of Delta Kappa Epsilon. It was the third fraternity founded at Miami University. The other two members of the Miami Triad are Beta Theta Pi and Phi Delta Theta.

The fraternity was carried on during the Civil War by a group of seven Sigma Chi's who were in the Confederate army.

Sigma Chi has 91 chapters that are active, and 20 inactive. The official publication is the Magazine of Sigma Chi.

Sigma Phi Epsilon went through the year proud of its member-brother Ralph Rawlings, who served as President of Associated Students.

The fraternity was founded at Richmond College (now the University of Richmond in Virginia in 1901.

One of the features of the fraternity's rush talk is the financial plan. Under this plan financial affairs of the chapter are entirely in the hands of the alumni, the inexperienced undergraduate being relieved of this burden and left free to devote all time to fraternal matters. The plan worked so successfully at Purdue, where it was initiated, that it has been adopted in all chapters.

Arkansas Alpha was installed in 1907. The publication of the order is the Sigma Phi Epsilon Journal, published monthly.

Lambda Chi's this year again lived up to their reputation of giving unusual entertainment. Weiner roasts, hayrides, bizarre schemes for dinner dances contributed to their reputation.

Lambda Chi Alpha was founded in 1909 in Boston. Now there are 84 chapters, all active in United States and Canada.

Gamma-Chi Zeta was chartered at the University of Arkansas in 1925.

Lambda Chi Alpha has been cited by the national interfraternity conference as the fraternity initiating more men annually than any other; as the fraternity having the largest number of active chapters; and as one of the fraternities consistently high in scholarship never ranking below fourth in fraternity scholastic standings.

THETA KAPPA NU

With the pledging of more and more football freshman and sophomores, Theta Kappa Nu promises to become, in a few years, the sporting man's fraternity on this campus.

Theta Kappa Nu never was founded; it was amalgamated. The fraternity was born at Culver-Stockton College in Missouri in 1867 when the first chapter of what was later to become Theta Kappa Nu was founded. At a meeting in Springfield, Missouri, in 1924, eight locals and a small national of three chapters assumed the same obligations. Theta Kappa Nu, then, is unique in having no mother chapter.

There are 55 active chapters of Theta Kappa Nu.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO

Second most important purely elective office on the campus, President of the Senior Class, rested this year with an AGR, John Hardy Brown.

The fraternity was founded at the University of Illinois in 1908 in the College of Agriculture. The purpose was to promote a wider acquaintance and a broader outlook on the part of agricultural men through fellowship in a national organization.

There are 33 active chapters, and numerous alumni chapters in the United States.

Alpha Gamma Rho is the newest men's fraternal organization on the Arkansas campus. At first it existed merely as the A.G.R. Club, but April 29, 1934, the organization received a charter from its national office. A.G.R. has shown considerable development since that time when it had but twenty-five charter members.

KAPPA NU

Despite the raised fees on students from distant states, which penalizes the typically northern candidate for membership, Kappa Nu had a good pledge class this year.

Kappa Nu was founded at the University of Rochester in 1911. The local chapter was established in 1931.

A national convention is held annually. Publications are: The Kappa Nu, a biannual magazine; the Reporter, the confidential bulletin of the national fraternity, published monthly; the monthly chapter bulletins; the Kappa Nu Song Book; and the Directory.

TAU EPSILON PHI

Tau Epsilon Phi initiated a worthy policy this year when they organized a series of forums and kaffee-klasches at which discussion of world events took place. Representatives from other houses were invited and speakers were chosen from among the faculty and wherever else a competent authority could be found.

It was originally founded as a professional fraternity, but the addition of the chapter at Cornell changed the organization to that of a national collegiate fraternity.

The fraternity was founded at Columbia University in 1910. The local chapter was installed in 1932.

The fraternity now has 33 chapters and numerous active alumni chapters.

Official publications are the Plume, published quarterly, and the Bulletin, also a quarterly, distributed only to members.

Phi Eta Sigma is an honorary organization for students making five point or better their freshman year. Its purpose is to encourage freshman who show a marked learning ability, thus to give recognition to scholarship among underclassmen.

The organization was installed in 1931 by Dean Herbert Smith of the University of Illinois, who is the national secretary of the organization. Since its inception, with an enrollment of 12, it has grown increasingly under the guidance of Professor G. E. Ripley.

Tau Beta Pi is an honorary society founded at Lehigh University, June 1885. Its purpose is to confer distinction upon those students who have maintained a high grade of scholarship and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering students in the institutions in which its chapters are located. When a chapter is established it may confer its key upon alumni and students of earlier years in analogy to a similar custom in Phi Beta Kappa.

Alpha chapter was founded at the University of Arkansas in 1914. Election to Tau Beta Pi is one of the highest honors that can be bestowed on an engineer.

Each year Kappa Delta Pi offers a scholarship to the outstanding sophomore or junior in the College of Education. Every two years, a delegate is sent to the national convocation. This year Marjorie McConnell represented the organization at Atlantic City, N. J.

Octagon, local honorary organization for outstanding senior women, was founded at the University of Arkansas in May, 1929, but did not make an official appearance on the campus until the following school year, when the members met, elected officers, and drew up a constitution.

The organization was begun under the leadership of Miss Martha Reid, Dean of Women, who has held up before the eyes of the group the prospect of Mortar Board, a national organization for outstanding women.

The name, Octagon, was chosen by the local group from the fact that there were eight members originally selected and the group has determined to adhere to the practice of pledging only one from each of the seven sororities and Carnall Hall.

Sigma Alpha Iota, national professional music fraternity, was founded June 12, 1903, in the School of Music of the University of Michigan. There are now 72 chapters.

The Sigma Omicron chapter was installed at the University of Arkansas November 25, 1925. The chapter has four patronesses: Mrs. Harry Shultz, Mrs. Fred L. Kerr, Miss Mildred Gillespie, and Mrs. Bert Lewis.

The standards and ideals of Sigma Alpha Iota are to form bodies of representative women who shall uphold the ideals of a musical education; raise the standards of musical work among women students; further music in America; and give aid to members.

Composition and public performance of members are encouraged.

The reception given Nino Martini, leading Metropolitan tenor, following his concert at the University on February 14, was the high spot of Sigma Alpha Iota's social calendar for the year.

Alpha Chi Sigma, national professional chemistry fraternity, was founded in 1902 at the University of Wisconsin. It has now 52 collegiate chapters and is the strongest chemical body of its kind.

Besides the collegiate chapters, professional groups have arisen in the majority of the larger cities in the country, and have become an integral part of the fraternity, comprising about 90 per cent of its members.

The official monthly magazine of the organization is The Hexagon.

Alpha Chi Sigma strives for the advancement of chemistry as a science and a profession, and for the assistance of its members in the attainment of their ambitions as chemists.

Alpha Sigma chapter was founded here in 1928. Activities of the local chapter include a monthly dinner meeting, an annual banquet, and stag parties.

Theta Tau is a professional engineering fraternity founded to promote high ethical and professional standards and close fraternal relations among its members.

The organization was founded as "Hammer and Tongs" at the University of Minnesota in 1904. The Greek letter name was adopted in 1911.

Scholastic standards are high and its membership is limited to students of engineering of "personal worthiness and of promising engineering ability." Members of Theta Tau are not permitted to join other engineering fraternities except honorary or scholastic organizations.

Upsilon chapter was established at the University of Arkansas in 1928 and has been active both in affairs of the engineering school and of the University as a whole.

It is the object of Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity, to promote the profession of agriculture; to establish, foster, and develop high standards of scholarship, character, leadership, and a spirit of fellowship among all its members.

Each year the Arkansas chapter presents a scholarship award to the freshman from the previous year who made the highest grade point. The chapter also presents a plaque to the vocational agriculture school which makes the highest score in the judging contests held during the high school meet.

Other activities include sponsoring a smoker for all men in the College of Agriculture and helping the vocational agriculture department in carrying on judging contests. It also has a loan fund for students of the College of Agriculture.

The Arkansas chapter was organized in 1917, has at present 164 alumni members and 30 active members.

The General Engineering Society is made up of all members in the Engineering college of the University. It originated as the Arkansas Chapter of the Collegiate Engineers. Students in the chapter, feeling it would be to their advantage, withdrew and formed the present organization.

The functions of the society are to promote a closer relationship between students training for work in different branches of engineering and to heighten general interest in the college in this and neighboring states.

Each year the society sets aside the Friday nearest the birthday of St. Patrick, patron saint of engineering, as Engineer's Day. At this time seniors of the college are honored by a special convocation. A display of fireworks and a dance are among the activities that have made Engineer's Day famous. The highlight of the celebration is the crowning of two students selected to reign during the festivities as St. Pat and his Queen.

Each year during the annual high school meet at the University, the Society plans an exhibit showing interesting features of engineering.

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers is a national organization composed of both professional engineers and students. Membership is open to any student who is actively interested in electrical engineering.

The national organization is designed to promote the interests of the profession. Through its branches it assists the student engineer while in school and helps him become established in his field after graduation.

The local branch affords students an opportunity to meet and discuss problems. At intervals outside speakers are invited to address the organization. Among those who addressed the organization this year was W. F. Thomas, manager of the local branch of the Southwestern Gas and Electric company. Several discussion meetings were held during the course of the year.

The mechanical element of the lads with the hairy ears formed the University of Arkansas student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineering some 20 odd years ago. The stimulation of interest in all subjects in the mechanical field is the endeavor of the organization, coupled with the promotion of more friendly relations between students of mechanics and aiding the advancement of graduates in the mechanical engineering profession.

Papers are presented for group study at regular monthly meetings. Because of the success of these papers, the A. S. M. E. has developed a seminar plan in which, by presenting a paper on some assigned subject and attending three-fourths of all meetings, members may obtain college credit.

In addition to sponsoring the activities of Agri Day, the association is in charge of arrangements for an annual "Barn-Warmin'" given soon after the beginning of the school year, a spring picnic, and barn dance at the University farm. The expense is shared by each student in the college, and each has a vote in the election of A. D. A. officers and Who's Who.

Since 1917, when the Future Farmers of America was founded in Virginia by Henry C. Groseclose and a group of boys enrolled in vocational agricultural work, the F. F. A. has grown to one of the largest farm youth organizations in the country with 165,000 members. The aim of the group is to encourage rural leadership, and to develop a love of country.

The collegiate chapter of F. F. A. was organized on the campus of the University of Arkansas in the fall of 1935 by Fred Harper, president of Arkansas Alumni

F. F. A. In the fall of 1936, this chapter opened the Future Farmer's Co-operative home.

The purposes and aims of the local F. F. A. chapter are:

To aid worthy and ambitious young men to a college education by bringing to them the advantages of cooperative efforts in providing board and room.

To encourage and inspire boys interested in vocational agriculture to attend the university, and,

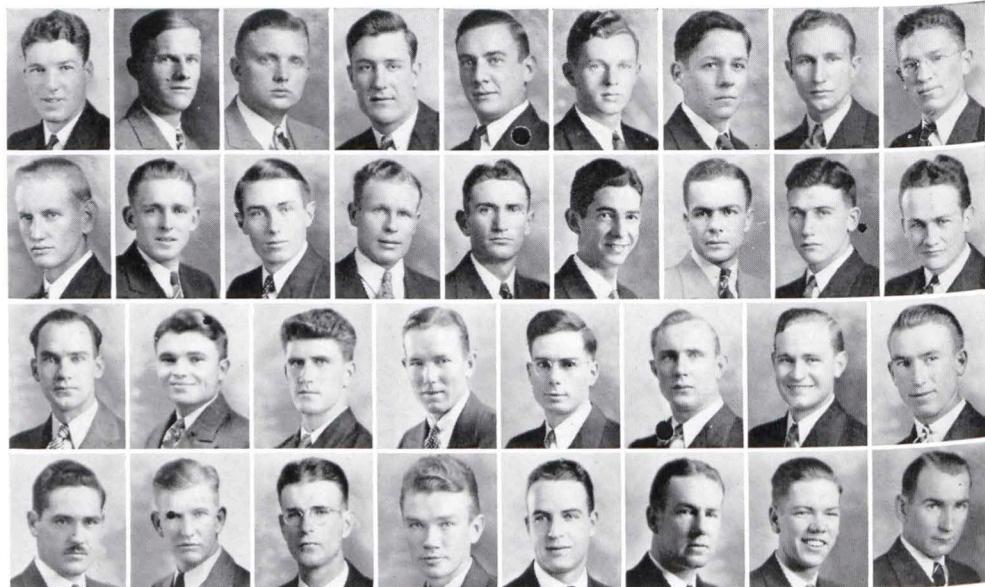

To foster fellowship and promote social activities.

Pioneering in establishing cooperative homes for men in the College of Agriculture, the Future Farmers of America chapter this year also pioneered in bringing down cleaning and pressing prices for students when members of the group instigated a boycott against local cleaners who were charging more than twice as much as those in neighboring towns.

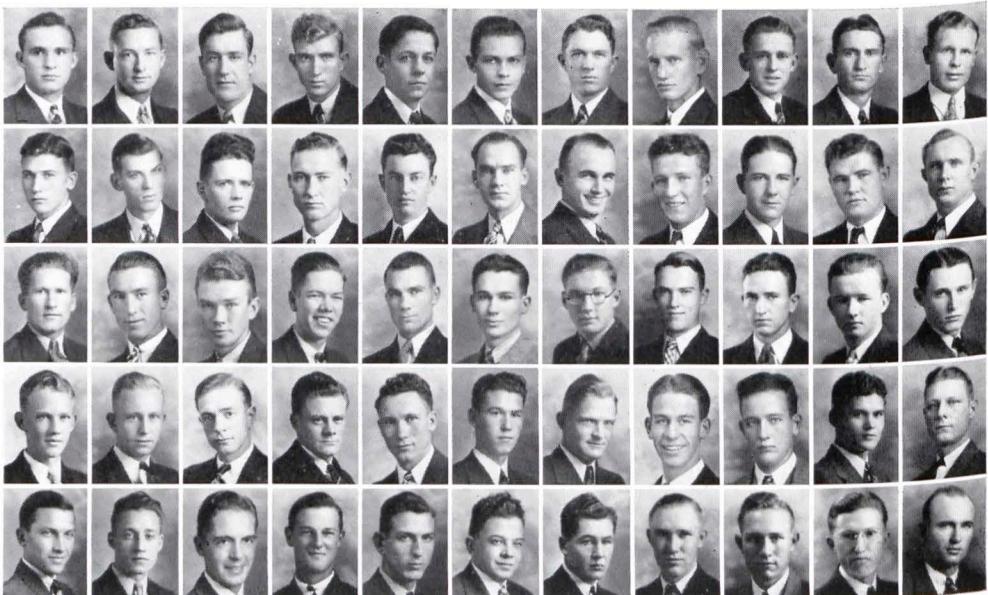

The F. F. A., too, backed a movement in the spring against the telephone company, but with less visible success.

The cooperative home here was founded in 1936, the first F. F. A. house on any college campus. Its rapid growth made necessary, this year, two houses to accomodate the 61 members. All the men eat at one house and share in much of the work to reduce the cost of room and board.

The organization works under the sponsorship of the campus chapter of the Future Farmers of America which aims to encourage and inspire boys who are interested in vocational agriculture to attend the University and to encourage organized recreational and social activities.

Drawing its members from all students of the College of Agriculture who have completed one or more years of 4-H club work before entering the University, the 4-H Club has grown, since its founding in 1929, to be the largest organization on the campus. This year 86 names are entered on its rolls.

The club's purpose is to help students in the University keep in contact with the club's work, to develop leadership, and to acquaint members with the work they will be doing after graduation.

The club sponsors cooperative houses for young men and women, the first organizations of their kind in the United States.

Among the group's activities are a Founders' day banquet in the spring, hay rides, and get-acquainted parties.

Unhesitatingly 4-H club house girls answer the age-old question "Can she cook?", for under their present system they not only gain practical experience but learn to reduce expenses.

It was to enable girls of limited finances to attend school that the cooperative house was established in the fall of 1932 under the sponsorship of the University 4-H club.

House work is shared by the girls, who sweep, clean, dust, and wash dishes in rotation. Each lass tidies her own room, and, by bringing staple and canned foods from home, table costs for the group are reduced to a minimum.

Feminine 4-Hers who wish to live in the house must be enrolled in the College of Agriculture and must receive the approval of the house executive committee.

The local chapter of the Rural Youth Literary Society, though just a yearling, completed in 1938 a successful season of activity on the Arkansas campus.

To further the purpose of the national organization, the promotion of cultural interests in remote agricultural districts, the local chapter has met twice a month in the Y. M. C. A. lodge to give programs meant to instill in the members, mostly agricultural students, a love for cultural matters which they could carry with them to their homes.

The national organization was founded in Washington county in 1936 by W. A. Shepherd and Ottis E. Denney, who is also founder and president of the local chapter, organized in September, 1937.

Officers are Ottis E. Denney, president; Ann Gilbert, vice-president; and Harland Doughty, secretary.

Instituting a new policy of allowing all its members to serve on committees at social and business meetings, the Home Economics club this year afforded all its members an opportunity to contribute to entertainment at the monthly meetings.

Open to all girls in the Home Economics department, the club promotes comradeship and cooperation among the girls in the College of Agriculture.

It is affiliated with the state and national Home Economics association, the only professional group that deals with home economics problems.

One of the organization's chief functions is to stimulate interest in home economics among new members. To further this end, a membership campaign is held each semester.

Showing true business ability, the Commerce Guild has planned a full program of academic and social activities to offer the business students for only one dollar a semester.

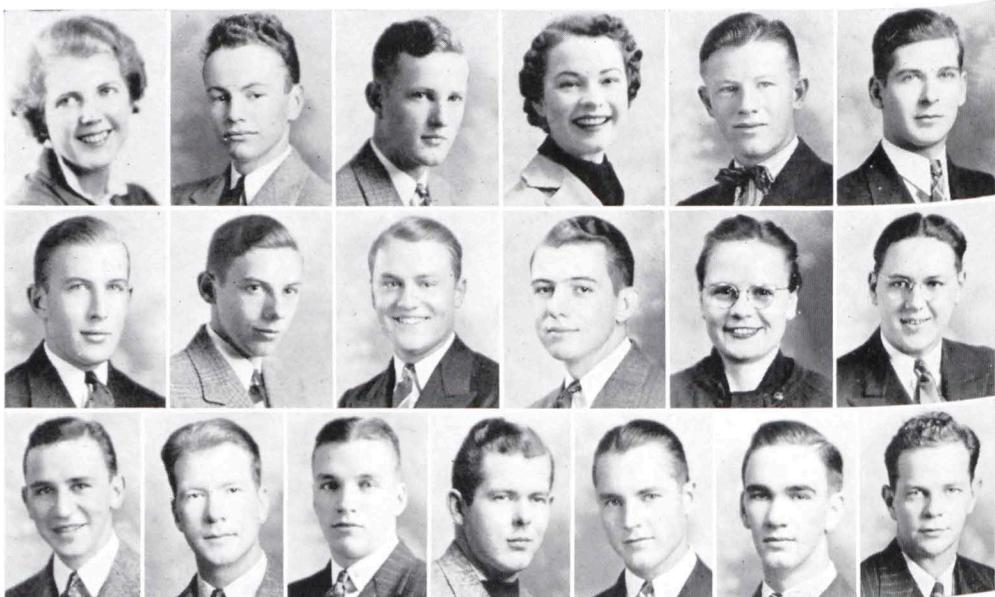

The executive council, made up of officers of the Guild and four representatives from each class, plans programs held once a month. It has been their endeavor to have as speakers some widely known business or professional man.

The first semester the speaker was James C. Penick, president of the Arkansas Banking Association.

Plans for the spring semester include a tour to Tulsa's commercial and industrial district to discover what makes a successful business tick.

Climax of academic affairs will be the appearance of a magazine sometime near the middle of April. This magazine, edited by Galen Price, six-pointer, will be appropriately named "The Ticker."

The Guild held a dance, February 19, and a banquet in May. Purpose of these functions is to promote friendship and good will among commerce students.

The local chapter of Wesley Players was the first founded in the South.

It is the official dramatic organization of the far-reaching Wesley Foundation and has the promotion of religious drama as its primary purpose. Besides giving several religious plays each year and co-operating with the various churches in the presentation of seasonal plays they present comedies and tragedies.

The B. S. U. is a connecting link between the college and the Baptist church. Every Baptist student is a potential member, membership being contingent upon membership in one of the unit organizations of the B. S. U.—the Sunday school, the B. Y. P. U., the Y. W. A., or the Life Service band.

The local union is one of the many unions in almost every college in the south, an outgrowth of a movement started in 1920. Each fall the local unions meet in a state convention, and once every four years they meet in a southwide convention.

The officers of the B. S. U. together with a representative from each unit organization form the B. S. U. Council. The duty of this council is to promote and correlate the activities of the various unit organizations.

The Hillel club, a society for Jewish students, is an outgrowth of the Menorah society established here in 1927. The group grew so rapidly that it soon found the aims and ideals of Menorah too narrow, and in 1933 it proposed affiliation with Hillel College foundations.

The organization started anew in the fall of 1934 as the Hillel club. The club had only a few members, but in the past four years it has grown steadily.

The purpose of the national organization is the advancement of religious, cultural, and social activities among University students, and the promotion of fellowship and a better understanding among religious groups. The local group presents varied programs during the year to foster these principles. Members of the faculty, students, and clergymen speak regularly, and religious services and social are held.

Honorary members of the Hillel club are W. S. Gregson, Prof. Barnett Sure, Prof Edgar Wertheim, Dean V. L. Jones, and Mrs. W. E. Marks and Rabbi Samuel Teitlebaum of Fort Smith.

Although the Y. M. C. A. at the University of Arkansas has the same purpose as the national organization, its greater and primary duty is to aid cooperation between students and church groups of Fayetteville. W. S. Gregson, general secretary of the organization, says that this ideal has been accomplished.

The Y. M. C. A. building is located almost in the middle of Arkansas' enlarged campus and is used to hold not only Y. M. C. A. meetings but also meetings of other organizations. Some of these organizations are 4-H club, A. D. A., Press Club, Hillel, Women's Rifle club, and the Baptist Student union which meets every morning from 7:45 to 7:55 for a short prayer service.

Lambda Tau, national women's English fraternity, was founded at Miami university, Oxford, Ohio. The local chapter was established in 1913.

Membership in the organization is limited to 15 University women in the three upper classes, who have shown literary ability.

The aim of the society is to promote a wide interest in contemporary literary matters and foster originality.

A business and a social meeting are held each month. This year's chief interests have been ballads and contemporary drama.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-eight marks the peak of the second era of Deutscher Verein, the flourishing organization that gives students desiring to obtain a better knowledge of the German tongue, an opportunity to hear the language spoken and sung. The organization is one of the largest on the campus and it compares well with the club of the same name in pre-war days. Until the fall of 1917, the German club existed as the largest on the campus and had many and variegated activities. Its reorganization in 1929 by Dr. A. E.

Virtually as a referee for that age old intramural sport—interfraternity throat-cutting, the Black Cat Cotillion was founded to sponsor closer interfraternity social relations and to encourage formal dances.

The social functions of the tuxedoed Black Cats, three dances each year, differ from other campus events in that a selected number of representative members are chosen from each of the social fraternities and from the town to make arrangements. Bids go at a premium and these formal dances are among the year's outstanding social events.

The cabinet, governing body of the organization, is composed of one member from each represented group. It makes necessary arrangements for the dances and arranges for initiation of new members.

Founded for the purpose of uniting campus journalists, the Press club this year has devoted much of its time to working on actual newspaper problems. Early in the year, the Press club edited and did reportorial work for a Saturday edition of the local daily newspaper.

The club also bought a plaque on which is inscribed the name of the leading first year male journalist every semester. First winner was Hugh Crumpler.

The student union campaign took up the rest of the energy of the club.

Pi Kappa, a woman's professional journalistic sorority, was founded at the University of Arkansas in 1917. Membership of the group is made up of women who are planning to take up the profession of journalism, and only those who have shown marked interest, originality, and ability along these lines as well as hav-

The University Band is divided into two parts. The regimental band plays for military parades and reviews. A select number of these bandsmen form the Razorback pep band which plays at football and basketball games.

Most colorful addition to the pep band this year was Ethel Betty Williams, operator of the new electric organ. The pep band carried on for another year its tradition of outdoing all other pep bands in the conference in intricacy and precision of marching maneuvers.

Again returned to the monastic ideal that women and serious song do not mix, the University chorus has this year added the word Men's to its title. Ousted are the fair singers who for the first time last year changed the name of the Men's Glee club to the University mixed chorus.

The newly purged men's singing organization of the university, under the direction of jovial, European-trained Harry E. Shultz, did admirable work this season. Chief among its activities were a tour about the state giving performances before several Arkansas audiences, an annual home concert in the University auditorium, and participation in the baccalaureate and commencement programs.

Alpha Epsilon Delta, the only national honorary fraternity for pre-medical students, installed a chapter on the University of Arkansas campus this year. It replaces the former local pre-medical fraternity, Alpha Mu Sigma.

Alpha Epsilon Delta, founded at the University of Alabama in 1926, is a society associated with the American Association for the Advancement of Science. There are now 17 chapters of the fraternity.

Scholastic standing is stressed in Alpha Epsilon Delta, and character, general ability, and personality are carefully considered in the selection of members.

Alpha Epsilon Delta does not replace the Pre-Med club. The two groups cooperate.

TO A GREATER ARKANSAS

In your years of school you are acquiring the foundation upon which your happiness, your future successes, are built. If that foundation has in its structure state loyalty, your successes shall make Arkansas great. The Lion Oil Refining Company has faith in your loyalty—and so with other industries in the state, Lion has, through taxes, and in other ways, helped you build the framework for your achievements in the future.

Good luck to you!

LET ME TAKE CARE OF
THE WORK IN YOUR HOME

Says Reddy Kilowatt,
Your Electric Servant

I do all sorts of work around your home. I wash and iron your clothes, refrigerate your food, clean your rugs, play your radio, and do dozens of other things to make your life pleasant. For all these chores I do, I get paid very little. My labor is cheap because electricity is cheap. The longer I work, the less I get paid per hour.

LEADERSHIP

Within every industry there is usually one concern that stands head and shoulders above competitors.

It is not through some stroke of luck or fortunate star that leadership within a particular sphere is accomplished but rather through specialized training, experience, and a constant vigilance toward service, quality of the product, and an honest desire to serve.

For nearly three decades the SOUTHWESTERN imprint in a yearbook has been the mark of quality...a guarantee of a helpful experienced service — of fine printing plates produced by skilled artisans.

We are proud of our association with this year's staff and pledge our best to staffs of the future.
